

TC Phonics- Unit 2: Word Scientists

Session 2: We Are Word Scientists

Teaching Point: Students will be able to study the alphabet chart in partnerships, noticing different features of letters including upper and lowercase and the similarities and differences between them.

Materials To Prepare:

- Mabel
- Small alphabet charts for students
- Large alphabet chart displayed on the wall

Connection

The teacher will help the students to become word scientists, to think about what scientists do, and to imagine doing those things when studying words. The teacher will highlight the work of looking closely.

The teacher say that today will be begin a new unit where we get to be word scientists! The teacher will ask the students if they know what scientists do and for them to turn and talk about it. The teacher will mention what she heard the students say (ex. Scientists collect things and study what they collect). The teacher can say how it reminds her of when the first astronaut went to the moon and collected soil and rocks and when he came back to earth, he began to study all of the things. The teacher will say that scientists collect stuff and study what they collect and how they may spend an hour or even a week studying one bug. They notice every little thing. Today, the students will study letters and words like scientists do!

The teacher will build excitement for the new unit by making Mabel a word scientist. The teacher will say that Mabel also wants to be a word scientist (C an put on a lap coat on Mabel). Mabel will "whisper" to the teacher that she can't wait to get started. The teacher will suggest that as word scientists, each student needs a copy of the alphabet chart (give one to each partnership). The teacher will demonstrate how to read it, naming the letter and the corresponding picture, and then making the letter sound. The teacher will model and read it out loud with the students.

Teaching (To)

The teacher will demonstrate looking closely at the alphabet chart by noticing lots of things. The teacher will channel the students to look closely at the first row- the
