

Question 3

Example Candidate Response – high

Examiner comments

Re-read Text C, This is going to hurt, in the insert and then answer Question 3 on this question paper.

Question 3

Imagine you are Adam. After reading your diaries, you write a letter to your parents reflecting on your time in medicine and your decision to quit.

In your letter you should explain:

- why you went to medical school and what medical training was like
- the challenges involved in working on the wards as a junior doctor and how you felt about the job at the time
- why you felt you had to give up and your feelings as you look back now.

Write the words of the letter.

Base your letter on what you have read in Text C, but be careful to use your own words. Address each of the three bullet.

Write about 250 to 300 words.

Up to 15 marks are available for the content of your answer and up to 10 marks for the quality of your writing.

Dear Mum and Dad,

I am writing this letter to you, to tell you about my time in medicine and why I decided to quit. I found a few of my diaries from a few years ago and I want to let you know why I made the choice.

In reality I still consist of a realisation I even wanted to be a doctor. I just feel like some dad was a doctor. I kind of be sure to make you proud? both of you proud. As dad would already know training is difficult. I never knew how complicated the human body really is.

1 The candidate opens with an appropriately polite and informal greeting for a personal letter to his parents.

2 There is a clear sense of purpose from the opening of the letter. Details from the introduction and task are carefully noted and used by the candidate to help think themselves into the role and adopt the perspective of Adam, some years later, as he looks back on the events described in the text.

3 The fact that his father is a doctor is explicit in the text and the idea is used here in the candidate's own words as part of the explanation for why he went to medical school. The point is then developed with the suggestion of Adam's feelings, picking up on the implications in the text.

4 The sense of audience is still being maintained and the voice continues to be convincing and appropriate.

5 The sense that there is so much to learn at medical school is suggested and might have been developed further.

Writing Exemplar Papers:

WSAS Knowledge and Concepts Examinations Writing Exemplar Booklet, 1998 Writing Human Factors Research Papers Don Harris, 2016-12-05 Writing high quality papers suitable for publication within international scientific journals is now an essential skill for all early career researchers their career progression and the reputation of the department in which they work depends upon it However many manuscripts are rejected or sent back for major re working not because the science they contain is in any way bad but because the same problems keep occurring in the way that the material is presented It is one thing to write a good scientific paper however it is quite another thing to get it published This requires some additional nous In writing this book Don Harris draws upon nearly a quarter of a century of experience as an author and reviewer of research papers and ultimately as a journal editor By his own admission it contains all the things he wished that his mentors had told him 25 years ago but didn't The material in the book is drawn from many years of finding all these things out for himself usually by trial and error but mostly error The text adopts a much lighter touch than is normally found in books of this type after all who really wants to read a book about writing research papers The author describes his own unique approach to writing journal papers which in his own words has proved to be extremely successful All major points are illustrated with examples from his own published works The book is written in the form of a manual for constructing a journal manuscript read a chapter write a section However the material it contains goes beyond just this and also describes how to select a target journal the manuscript submission process what referees are looking for in a good journal paper and how to deal with the referees comments Each chapter concludes with a checklist to ensure all the key elements have been addressed

Handbook of Research on Teacher Practices for Diverse Writing Instruction Hodges, Tracey S., 2022-05-20 The art and practice of writing is complex and multidimensional students often apply unique writing styles As such educators must apply focused teaching methods to nurture these unique forms of writing Educators must stay up to date with the practices for diverse writing instruction in order to best engage with a diverse classroom However resources related to writing typically do not focus on the depth and breadth of writing and there is a need for a resource that offers a comprehensive look at diverse writing instruction research The Handbook of Research on Teacher Practices for Diverse Writing Instruction provides a rich discussion of the issues perspectives and methods for writing instruction currently in use with an added lens focusing on diversity and equity It provides unique coverage on the topic of writing instruction for practical implementation within the classroom setting Covering topics such as student motivation curriculum development and content area instruction this major reference work is an essential resource for preservice teachers faculty and administration of K 12 and higher education academic libraries government officials school boards researchers and academicians
