Writing As Reflective Action Duncan Carter, Sherrie Gradin, 2000-08 From Sentences to Essays Mara Cogni, 2018-06-19 Writing is a daunting activity not only for language learners it is in fact challenging for everyone who wants to communicate their thoughts persuasively and accurately When students engage in speaking activities they communicate extraordinarily interesting ideas and thoughts However when asked to write these ideas down into coherent texts they seem helpless This book is intended to help students tackle their writing challenges by proposing a different approach to writing It incorporates grammar vocabulary literature and writing into a simultaneous and coherent whole presided by reflective thinking There is hardly any doubt that writing and reading are related activities and that both rely on creating meaning When we read as well as when we write we find ourselves in the process of becoming We change our knowledge and understanding along the way In truth today more than ever learning a language needs to be perceived as a deeply meaningful process This book is meant to make that possible by rendering learning both enjoyable and meaningful
