Tomlinson Report Fefc 1996 Inclusive Learning:

Working Towards Inclusive Education Peter Mittler, 2012-06-25 This book provides a clearly written wide ranging overview of current key issues and challenges arising from the implementation of more inclusive policies and provision in education in this country and internationally The author sets policies for inclusive schools in the broader contexts of current policies which aim to reduce poverty and social exclusion and the wider global background of the United Nations drive to promote Education for All The book draws a distinction between integration and inclusion and provides a critical analysis of the government's Program of Action and the revised National Curriculum and their implications for schools pupils and families

Further Education Re-formed Pamela Robinson, Alan Smithers, 2002-11-01 After more than a century of being undervalued further education has been thrust into the limelight How have the colleges fared How have they been shaped by the new arrangements for funding governance inspection and the new qualifications framework What do those running the colleges and working in them make of the changes What are their prospects for the new millennium Further Education Reformed is the definitive account of where further education has got to and where it might be heading Containing specifically commissioned papers by some of the most respected academics currently working in the field of further education this book draws the situation as it is now and looks forward to the developments of the coming years It will be vital reading for anyone concerned with further education in particular and education in general whether as a policy maker governor manager teacher employer or student

The Learning Society and people with learning difficulties Riddell, Sheila, Baron, Stephen, 2001-05-16 There is a growing concern about the social exclusion of a range of minority groups including people with learning difficulties Lifelong learning is seen as one of the central means of challenging the exclusion of this group but also of enhancing their economic status This book demonstrates that policy based on human capital premises has produced forms of lifelong learning which exacerbate the marginalisation of people with learning difficulties The Learning Society and people with learning difficulties reviews the range of policy fields which increasingly intervene in the lifelong learning arena maps the agencies involved in service delivery and describes their sometimes conflicting ethos provides in depth accounts of the lived experiences of individuals with learning difficulties as they navigate lifelong learning options Its exploration of the links between community care education training employment housing and benefits policies in the context of lifelong learning is unique This book makes a significant contribution to debates about how people with learning difficulties may achieve social inclusion and the part which lifelong learning may play in this It is therefore invaluable reading for policy makers practitioners and academics interested in these issues
