Mental Health in English Language Education Christian Ludwig, Theresa Summer, Maria Eisenmann, Daniel Becker, Nadine Krüger, 2024-04-08 Mental health has become a growing concern in today's society with schools emerging as focal points for addressing this topic The present volume takes this as a starting point to explore the relevance of curricula and competencies texts and materials digital culture and communication and teacher education in the context of mental health and English language education This for instance includes insights into interrelated topics such as gender climate change stress and conspiracy theories A variety of texts including multimodal novels video games and songs provides practical impulses for integrating mental health related topics into English lessons As such this volume brings together scholars from various fields who discuss the relationship between mental health issues and English as a foreign language learning from a variety of theoretical empirical and practice oriented perspectives Life, Death and Gold Leather Trousers Fiona Foden, 2014-09-04 Clover's life is going from bad to worse Her dad's run off with Nudie Bernice from his life drawing class Mum's taken to either staying in bed or doing aerobics from dawn till dusk the gorgeous new boy at school is sending very mixed messages On top of all that there's the whole thing with Jupe Clover's beloved international rock star uncle who has died Why had he and Mum had such a falling out And why wasn't Clover brave enough to send him the letters she'd written over the years Cancer and Young Adult Literature Stephen M. Zimmerly, 2024-12-20 This collection specifically and solely focuses on Young Adult literature texts where cancer plays a prominent role including widely read texts like John Green's The Fault in Our Stars Nicholas Sparks A Walk to Remember and Jesse Andrews Me and Earl and the Dying Girl The chapters present a variety of arguments each developing a novel investigation into how these stories explore the effects cancer has on a person a family or on a relationship As scientific studies continue to develop new understandings of the biology behind cancer and new sociological studies continue to uncover how a cancer diagnosis impacts the fabric of our culture's these collected essays continue to investigate how authors have woven cancer into the stories we write for young people A number of distinct avenues are taken here arguing for new approaches in crafting narrative deeper appreciation for family support networks or their absence and what literary criticism can uncover when applied to cancer narratives

Critical Disability Studies and the Disabled Child Harriet Cooper, 2020-03-20 This book examines the relationship between contemporary cultural representations of disabled children on the one hand and disability as a personal experience of internalised oppression on the other In focalising this debate through an exploration of the politically and emotionally charged figure of the disabled child Harriet Cooper raises questions both about what it means to speak for the other and about what resistance means when one is unknowingly invested in one's own abjection. Drawing on both the author's personal experience of growing up with a physical impairment and on a range of critical theories and cultural objects from Frances Hodgson Burnett's novel The Secret Garden to Judith Butler's work on injurious speech, the book theorises the making of disabled and rehabilitated subjectivities. With a conceptual framework informed by both psychoanalysis and critical disability studies, it investigates the ways in which cultural anxieties about disability come to be embodied and lived by the disabled child. Posing new questions for disability studies and for identity politics about the relationships between lived experiences, cultural representations and dominant discourses and demonstrating a new approach to the concept of internalised oppression, this book will be of interest to scholars and students of disability studies, medical humanities, sociology and psychosocial studies as well as to those with an interest in identity politics more generally. The Story Cure

Ella Berthoud, Susan Elderkin, 2016-10-27 The stories that shape our children's lives are too important to be left to chance. With The Story Cure, bibliotherapists Ella Berthoud and Susan Elderkin have put together the perfect manual for grown-ups who want to initiate young readers into one of life's greatest pleasures. There's a remedy for every hiccup and heartache, whether it's between the covers of a picture book, a pop-up book or a YA novel. You'll find old favourites like The Borrowers and The Secret Garden alongside modern soon-to-be classics by Michael Morpurgo, Malorie Blackman and Frank Cottrell Boyce, as well as helpful lists of the right reads to fuel any obsession from dogs or dinosaurs, space or spies. Wise and witty, The Story Cure will help any small person you know through the trials and tribulations of growing up and help you fill their bookshelves with adventure, insight and a lifetime of fun. Building Communities of Engaged Readers

Teresa Cremin, Marilyn Mottram, Fiona M. Collins, Sacha Powell, Kimberly Safford, 2014-06-20 Reading for pleasure urgently requires a higher profile to raise attainment and increase children's engagement as self-motivated and socially interactive readers. Building Communities of Engaged Readers highlights the concept of Reading Teachers who are not only knowledgeable about texts for children but are aware of their own reading identities and prepared to share their enthusiasm and understanding of what being a reader means. Sharing the processes of reading with young readers is an innovative approach to developing new generations of readers. Examining the interplay between the will and the skill to read, the book distinctively details a reading for pleasure pedagogy and demonstrates that reader engagement is strongly influenced by relationships between children, teachers, families and communities. Importantly, it provides compelling evidence that reciprocal reading communities in school encompass a shared concept of what it means to be a reader in the 21st century: considerable teacher and child knowledge of children's literature and other texts, pedagogic practices which acknowledge and develop diverse reader identities, spontaneous inside-text talk on the part of all members, a shift in the focus of control and new social spaces that encourage choice and children's rights as readers. Written by experts in the literacy field and illustrated throughout with examples from the project schools it is essential reading for all those concerned with improving young people's enjoyment of and attainment in reading
