1. The central surface of the eye is the cornea. The cornea is the outermost surface of the eye.
2. The iris is the colored part of the eye. It controls the amount of light that enters the eye by contracting or relaxing the muscles in its center.
3. The lens is a transparent, biconvex structure that focuses light on the retina. It is held in place by the ciliary muscles.
4. The retina is the light-sensitive layer at the back of the eye. It contains photoreceptors (rods and cones) that convert light into electrical signals.
5. The optic nerve carries the electrical signals from the retina to the brain.
6. The macula is a small, specialized area of the retina responsible for central vision.
7. The fovea is a small pit in the center of the macula, where vision is sharpest.
8. The aqueous humor is a clear fluid that fills the space between the cornea and the lens. It helps maintain the shape of the eye.
9. The vitreous humor is a clear, gel-like substance that fills the space between the lens and the retina. It also helps maintain the shape of the eye.
10. The conjunctiva is the thin, transparent membrane that covers the white part of the eye (sclera) and the inner surface of the eyelids.
11. The eyelids (palpebrae) are the folds of skin that protect the eye from dust, debris, and bright light.
12. The eyelashes are small hairs that grow from the eyelids to help protect the eye.
13. The tear ducts are small channels that produce and drain tears from the eyes.
14. The tear film is a thin layer of tears that coats the surface of the cornea, helping to keep it moist and clear.
15. The optic chiasm is the point where the optic nerves from both eyes meet and cross.
16. The optic tract is the part of the optic nerve that carries the signals from the optic chiasm to the brain.
17. The lateral geniculate nucleus is a part of the brain that receives signals from the optic tract and sends them to the visual cortex.
18. The visual cortex is the part of the brain that processes the visual information and creates the perception of sight.
19. The visual pathway is the entire system that carries visual information from the eye to the brain.
20. The visual system is the entire system that allows us to see, including the eye, the visual pathway, and the brain.
