Ufs Postgraduate Requirements For 2016:

Postgraduate Supervision Magda Fourie-Malherbe, 2016-11-21 The 24 chapters contained in this volume provide diverse but also congruent perspectives on future foci for research into postgraduate education and supervision in the knowledge society The chapters move from deliberations on challenges for postgraduate supervision at macro level such as the pressure to increase postgraduate output and the implications of increasingly managerialist institutions to meso level matters the form and function of postgraduate education in specific countries to the micro rich case studies of individual institutions programmes and supervisors

Creating Conditions for Student Success Magda Fourie-Malherbe, 2021-12-15 The various chapters of this book have brilliantly provided perspectives on creating conditions for success in higher education from a wide variety of stakeholders within a university environment The rich content comes from varying fields of study as well as academic development and student affairs directorates within the institution This is what is exciting about the book The diversity of focus in chapters makes the book relevant to anyone with interest in higher education matters From the opening to the closing chapter students are making a contribution on what the university has done or is doing for them to succeed or what it should consider doing to improve its service to students This touches on every environment that students find themselves in a university setting from residences to the classroom to commuter or off campus students The book's extended use of the capabilities approach and critical social theories has enabled it to provide nuances on not only the success of students but more importantly about how the higher education environment can transform itself to practices relevant for the sector today The various research studies in this book can benefit similar university contexts nationally and internationally

Global Perspectives on Decolonizing Postgraduate Education Gumbo, Mishack Thiza, Gaotlhobogwe, Michael, Pedzisai, Constantino, Jojo, Zingiswa Mybert Monica, Knaus, Christopher B., 2024-05-13 A deep seated issue persists in postgraduate education one that threatens the relevance of academia in our diverse and evolving world The problem at hand is the Western centric nature of postgraduate education where research paradigms methodologies and theoretical frameworks overwhelmingly reflect a Western worldview This rigid adherence to Western ideologies has left indigenous communities on the periphery of academic discourse denying them the opportunity to engage with their knowledge systems and practices Despite the richness and prevalence of indigenous knowledge the existing educational structure remains a barrier to their inclusion This disconnect is not only an academic concern but also a societal one as it hinders sustainable development and stifles the voices of indigenous scholars and students Global Perspectives on Decolonizing Postgraduate Education serves as a compelling solution to the problem at hand It offers a comprehensive roadmap to decolonize postgraduate education infusing it with indigenous approaches paradigms theories and methods Through critical examination and practical strategies this book empowers academics curriculum designers and postgraduate students to embark on a transformative journey

Educational Leadership for Transformation and Social Justice John Ambrosio, 2016-11-03 Educational Leadership for Transformation and Social Justice examines the relationship between the lived experiences of educational leaders at the University of the Free State in South Africa and how they think about and practice leadership for transformation and social justice. Based on biographical information, public speeches, published writings, and in depth semi structured face to face interviews, the book presents and analyses seven chapter length narratives of these leaders. This book explores how some leaders at the University of the Free State from the vantage point of various racialized and gendered identities and generational experiences conceptualize and enact leadership for transformation and social justice. Ambrosio argues that there are certain values, beliefs, concepts, principles, and ways of thinking that cut across their experiences and demographic differences. The narratives are presented in the leaders' own words and describe how their lived experiences shaped their values and identities and inform how they think about and practice leadership for transformation and social justice. One convergence that emerged among these leaders is that their leadership is an extension of who they are, of their core values, identities, and ethical commitments. Another is that they are motivated by visions of change that go beyond the University by bigger dreams that infuse their work with meaning and purpose. With its in depth analysis of the narratives, this book will provide educational leaders who have an orientation towards transformation and social justice with insights that enable them to think differently about how to make the policies, programs, and institutional culture of their own universities more equitable and just. It will appeal to academics, researchers, and postgraduate students in the fields of education, educational justice, higher education, educational leadership, and change, social justice, and racial justice.

Transformation and Legitimation in Post-apartheid Universities Dionne van Reenen, J.C. van der Merwe, 2016-07-01 Two decades after the democratic transition, South African universities are in turmoil. Whilst the old is slowly becoming unhinged, reimagining the new is protracted and contested. The challenges ahead, including a funding crunch, are formidable and bear the imprint of South African postcolonial specificities and global transformations in higher education. At this moment, critical and engaged socio historical scholarship is indispensable. Transformation and Legitimation in Post apartheid Universities Reading discourses from Reitz is such a work. Revisiting the notorious Reitz incident of 2008, when a satirical video made by students from the University of the Free State (UFS) to register their resistance to the racial integration of black students into historically white residences became public, the text offers an analysis of the broader cultural and socio political context that constituted the conditions of possibility for the incident and its aftermath. Attention is shifted from the principal actors in the original drama, a handful of students and workers, to a critical interrogation of the broader structures, positions, discourses, and practices that fed into the Reitz incident, reaching into the present with violent and racially charged student and worker protests in 2016. Van der Merwe and Van Reenen deliver a theoretically rich analysis of the anatomy of current contestations about race and transformation in higher education in South Africa, the resultant legitimation crisis facing the UFS and South African universities more generally, as well as ways to restore institutional legitimacy and reputation focusing on instituting deeper more durable change that unlocks the promise of democracy Dr Irma du Plessis University of Pretoria

Right to Development and Illicit Financial Flows from Africa Serges Djoyou Kamga, Gerard Emmanuel Kamdem Kamga, Arnold Kwesiga, 2024-02-15 Gerard Emmanuel Kamdem Kamga Serges Djoyou Kamga and Arnold Kwesiga explore a relatively new phenomenon namely referred to as illicit financial flows that aim to impoverish the African continent and prevent its economic development There is a direct relationship between illicit financial flows and failed initiatives to realize the right to development on the continent For instance in 2016 Africa received 41 billion towards public development while 50 billion left the continent through illicit financial flows The gap between recent economic achievements on the continent and its state of generalized underdevelopment coupled with rampant poverty corruption prolonged economic crisis and political instabilities signals an issue with resource allocations The systematic theft of resources by multinational corporations and criminal networks is a hard blow to the idea of people driven development in line with the Pan African vision of an integrated prosperous and peaceful Africa proclaimed by Agenda 2063 Right to Development and Illicit Financial Flows from Africa Dynamics Perspectives and Prospects provides insights into the dynamics and perspectives on illicit financial flows and its dire impacts on the right to development and development initiatives across the continent

Crop Resistance Mechanisms to Alleviate Climate Change-Related Stress Jose Ramon Acosta Motos, Juan De Dios Franco-Navarro, Sara Álvarez, María José Gómez-Bellot, 2024-02-20 Anthropogenic activities have aggravated the effects of global climate change on ecosystems Plants because of their inability to escape from an adverse environment suffer to a great extent from stresses which can negatively impact their growth and development Global warming is increasingly causing extreme climatic situations such as very high or low temperatures drought and flooding events hailstorms wildfires extreme precipitation events and the reduction of fertile soil through desertification and salinization In addition warmer temperatures and higher humidity related with the climate change can also increase pest and disease pressure on plants by altering the geographic range population size and timing of pest and disease outbreaks Taken together abiotic stress related with climate change as drought or extreme temperature can exacerbate the spread and severity of various diseases associated with biotic stress increasing the vulnerability of plants to pathogens some examples include insects fungi bacteria or viruses

A critical engagement with theological education in Africa Johannes J. Knoetze, Alfred R. Brunsdon, 2022-02-07 The higher education landscape has arguably become one of the most arduous to traverse More so in the African context where a host of variables continuously challenge educators to reflect critically on their philosophies and practices as they engage an ever changing audience In this book a critical engagement with theological education in Africa is offered As the book originates from South Africa it is presented as a South African perspective although contributors are situated accross the African continent and abroad The common denominator is that all contributers are in some way or another invested in theological education in Africa The main contribution of this collaborative work is to be sought in the insights it offers on four main areas of theological education A historical and current orientation on theological edcuation in Africa some paradigm shifts in theological education in Africa ministerial formation needs versus theological education challenges and a critical reflection on elective models and methods The book presents the original and innovative research of scholars for fellow scholars involved in theological higher education as it is grounded in the respective fields of interest of each contributor It contributes to a better understanding of the complex African theological higher education landscape that is also mindful of post COVID 19 realities Methodologically the work draws on a combination of methods including literature studies empirical work and in some cases sectional offerings from doctoral studies as indicated in the various chapters

Sea Cucumbers: The Sustainability of Emergent and Historical Resources Pedro M. Félix, Christopher M. Pearce, Arnold Rakaj, Ana Pombo, 2025-03-13 Sea cucumbers are echinoderms with key ecological roles in marine ecosystems They are fished worldwide as food and for their various nutraceutical and pharmacological properties Over the years poorly managed fisheries in many countries have led to overexploitation and resulted in local population declines Nonetheless sea cucumber demand shows an increasing trend and consequently fishing grounds have expanded to new regions targeting new species and aggravating the problem It is important to acknowledge that present and future stock depletion is a reality under current exploitation conditions in many countries Aquaculture can have a crucial role in supporting the conservation of natural resources through reduced fishing pressure and wild stock re seeding and thus help meet global sea cucumber demand The historic low economic relevance of sea cucumbers in new fishing regions has left a knowledge gap regarding the biological and ecological aspects of species in those regions knowledge that is crucial for stock management and for developing appropriate rearing techniques Successful approaches to the management of sea cucumbers need to incorporate robust management strategies and mitigation measures that include aquaculture options for potential restocking or for enhanced production potential All these measures need to be developed prepared and applied across diverse user groups The global status and course of sea cucumber exploitation rationalizes the need for an increase in sea cucumber R D Topics like population status demographics habitat preferences distribution patterns growth strategies reproductive cycles and behavioural or life history traits are understudied but paramount for successful stock management and sustainable fisheries Additionally the development of sea cucumber aquaculture as an alternative to fisheries to supply international markets has led to a plethora of recent research on the subject Advances in the successful integration of deposit feeders such as sea cucumbers into rearing systems with organisms at other trophic levels in what is commonly known as Integrated Multi Trophic Aquaculture IMTA have occurred and offer the promise of more efficient and sustainable production methods All these topics require novel research approaches for the validation and application of these methodologies

Post-admission Language Assessment of University Students John Read, 2016-08-10 English medium universities around the world face real challenges in ensuring that incoming students have the language and literacy skills they need to cope with the demands of their degree programmes One response has been a variety of institutional initiatives to assess students after admission in order to identify those with significant needs and advise them on how to enhance their academic language ability This volume brings together papers from Australia Canada Hong Kong New Zealand Oman South Africa and the United States written by language assessment specialists who discuss issues in the design and implementation of these post admission assessments in their own institutions A major theme running through the book is the need to evaluate the validity of such assessments not just on their technical quality but on their impact in terms of giving students access to effective means of developing their language skills and ultimately enhancing their academic achievement
