Decolonisation after Democracy Laurence Piper, 2020-05-21 Decolonisation after Democracy addresses the provocative idea that we need to rid higher education of lingering forms of colonial knowledge This matters because in the colonial era much knowledge was put to the service of subjugating indigenous peoples and the assumptions from this era may linger into the present Examples of deep rooted and foundational forms of knowledge that carry colonial traits are normative binaries such as civilised and backward modern and traditional and rational and superstitious In addition some accounts of positive values like freedom equality justice and democracy may hide the assumption that the western experience is the norm from which other kinds are rendered imitations deviations or pathologies In this collection some of South Africa's leading political scientists and academics engage with the challenge of decolonising knowledge in the research and teaching of politics It includes new insights about the state international relations clientelism statesociety relations and land reform and introduces new ways to engage the colonial library curriculum reform and the marginality of historically black institutions Finally the contributors deal with the decolonial challenge posed by the FeesMustFall student movements reflecting on issues of revolutionary politics and gender and sexual violence This book was originally published as a special issue of Politikon

Ethnoprimateology Michel T. Waller, 2016-07-28 The list of challenges facing nonhuman primates in the 21st century is a long one The expansion of palm oil plantations to feed a growing consumer class is eating away at ape and monkey habitats in Southeast Asia and Central Africa Lemurs are hunted for food in the poorest parts of Madagascar while monkeys are used as medicine in Brazil

Traditional cultural beliefs are maintaining demand for animal body parts in West African markets while viral YouTube videos of cute and cuddly lorises have increased their market value as pets and endangered their populations These and other issues are addressed in this book by leading researchers in the field of ethnoprimateology the study of human nonhuman primate interactions that combines traditional primatological methodologies with cultural anthropology in an effort to better understand the nuances of our economic ritualistic and ecologic relationships Extreme Events in the Developing World Emma Rosa Mary Archer, Katharine Emma Vincent, Andrew John Dougill, Marta Bruno Soares, Chris C. Funk, 2022-11-25

The African Food Environments Amos Laar, Kaleab Baye, Anna Lartey, Francis Zotor, Gershim Asiki, 2023-09-05 In many respects the continent of Africa is in transition Prominent among them currently is the nutrition transition One consequence of the nutrition transition is the increase in prevalence of nutrition related non communicable diseases NCDs such as obesity type 2 diabetes cardiovascular diseases and certain cancers Although NCDs are a global public health problem the rate of increase in NCDs morbidity and mortality in some African countries is staggering This surge has been linked to modifiable environmental factors factors that facilitate the consumption of obesogenic energy dense nutrient poor foods rather than unrefined cereals fruits and vegetables It has long been recognized that the physical and social environments in which people live work and eat are critical determinants of their health More recently there has been a greater focus on the food environment as a key determinant of health Available evidence shows that unhealthy food environments drive unhealthy diets and unhealthy diet is one of four main risk factors for NCDs Handbook of Research on Promoting Global Citizenship Education Keengwe, Jared, 2022-02-18 A global citizen is an individual who believes in a public responsibility for their local community to grow and interconnect amongst the world s diverse people and things Global citizenship education is a fast moving process that continues to intertwine communities all over the world As we move toward a more global world the improvement in education health poverty rates and standard of living should come with it This global world must be a place where people are aware of what is going on and can have an impact as well The Handbook of Research on Promoting Global Citizenship Education explores various ways to empower educators to design and implement a curriculum that incorporates global citizen education Covering a range of topics such as global issues and academic migration this major reference work is ideal for academicians industry professionals policymakers researchers scholars instructors and students Technologies in Plant Biotechnology and Breeding of Field Crops Kamaluddin, Usha Kiran, M. Z. Abdin, 2022-10-05 This edited book is a comprehensive compilation of principles conventional and molecular approaches used to develop improved varieties and hybrids of major crops in light of their origin evolution taxonomy production and productivity and need by human civilization The book covers breeding prospects of all important food and commercial crops It highlights the importance of breeding tools and techniques in ensuring food security This book is of interest to teachers researchers agriculture scientists capacity builders and policymakers Also the book serves as additional reading material for undergraduate and graduate students of agriculture soil science and environmental sciences National and international agricultural scientists and policymakers will find this book useful Crop Resistance Mechanisms to Alleviate Climate Change-Related Stress Jose Ramon Acosta Motos, Juan De Dios Franco-Navarro, Sara Álvarez, María José Gómez-Bellot, 2024-02-20 Anthropogenic activities have aggravated the effects of global climate change on ecosystems Plants because of their inability to escape from an adverse environment suffer to a great extent from stresses which can negatively impact their growth and development Global warming is increasingly causing extreme climatic situations such as very high or low temperatures drought and flooding events hailstorms wildfires extreme precipitation events and the reduction of fertile soil through desertification and salinization In addition warmer temperatures and higher humidity related with the climate change can also increase pest and disease pressure on plants by altering the geographic range population size and timing of pest and disease outbreaks Taken together abiotic stress related with climate change as drought or extreme temperature can exacerbate the spread and severity of various diseases associated with biotic stress increasing the vulnerability of plants to pathogens some examples include insects fungi bacteria or viruses Universities, Employability and Human Development Melanie Walker, Samuel Fongwa, 2017-01-20 The book makes a significant contribution to critical higher education studies specifically to graduate employability research and to capabilities and education research The book moves beyond the simplistic conception of alleged gaps in graduate skills and mismatches between employers and universities and instead provides an innovative multi dimensional and intersectional human capabilities conceptualisation of graduate employability The book challenges an individualised notion of employability instead locating employability issues in social and economic conditions and argues that employability choices cannot be divorced from inequality Qualitative and quantitative data from multiple case study universities in South Africa are used to explore the perceptions and experiences of diverse students lecturers support officers and employers regarding what each university is doing or should be doing to enhance graduate economic opportunities and contribute to inclusive development The book will be highly relevant to students scholars and researchers in the fields of education and sociology particularly those with an interest in graduate employability Transformation and Legitimation in Post-apartheid Universities Dionne van Reenen, J.C. van der Merwe, 2016-07-01 Two decades after the democratic transition South African universities are in turmoil Whilst the old is slowly becoming unhinged reimagining the new is protracted and contested The challenges ahead including a funding crunch are formidable and bear the imprint of South African postcolonial specificities and global transformations in higher education At this moment critical and engaged socio historical scholarship is indispensable Transformation and Legitimation in Post apartheid Universities Reading discourses from Reitz is such a work Revisiting the notorious Reitz incident of 2008 when a satirical video made by students from the University of the Free State UFS to register their resistance to the racial integration of black students into historically white residences became public the text offers an analysis of the broader cultural and socio political context that constituted the conditions of possibility for the incident and its aftermath Attention is shifted from the principal actors in the original drama a handful of students and workers to a critical interrogation of the broader structures positions discourses and practices that fed into the Reitz incident reaching into the present with violent and racially charged student and worker protests in 2016 Van der Merwe and Van Reenen deliver a theoretically rich analysis of the anatomy of current contestations about race and transformation in higher education in South Africa the resultant legitimization crisis facing the UFS and South African universities more generally as well as ways to restore institutional legitimacy and reputation focusing on instituting deeper more durable change that unlocks the promise of democracy Dr Irma du Plessis University of Pretoria

Epistemic Freedom in Africa Sabelo Ndlovu-Gatsheni, 2018-06-27 Epistemic Freedom in Africa is about the struggle for African people to think theorize interpret the world and write from where they are located unencumbered by Eurocentrism The imperial denial of common humanity to some human beings meant that in turn their knowledges and experiences lost their value their epistemic virtue Now in the twenty first century descendants of enslaved displaced colonized and racialized peoples have entered academies across the world proclaiming loudly that they are human beings their lives matter and they were born into valid and legitimate knowledge systems that are capable of helping humanity to transcend the current epistemic and systemic crises Together they are engaging in diverse struggles for cognitive justice fighting against the epistemic line which haunts the twenty first century The renowned historian and decolonial theorist Sabelo J Ndlovu Gatsheni offers a penetrating and well argued case for centering Africa as a legitimate historical unit of analysis and epistemic site from which to interpret the world whilst simultaneously making an equally strong argument for globalizing knowledge from Africa so as to attain ecologies of knowledges This is a dual process of both deprovincializing Africa and in turn provincializing Europe The book highlights how the mental universe of Africa was invaded and colonized the long standing struggles for an African university and the trajectories of contemporary decolonial movements such as Rhodes Must Fall and Fees Must Fall in South Africa This landmark work underscores the fact that only once the problem of epistemic freedom has been addressed can Africa achieve political cultural economic and other freedoms This groundbreaking new book is accessible to students and scholars across Education History Philosophy Ethics African Studies Development Studies Politics International Relations Sociology Postcolonial Studies and the emerging field of Decolonial Studies The Open Access versions Chapter 1 and Chapter 9 available at <https://doi.org/10.4324/9780429492204> have been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license
