

A photograph of a University of Florida campus. In the foreground, there is a brick walkway leading through two brick pillars. The pillars have plaques on them. In the background, there is a large, multi-story brick building with a red-tiled roof. A curved archway above the entrance to the building reads "University of Florida".

Beasley,2025-01-15 The Proof Is in the Dough examines how rural white and African American women in Alabama and Florida used the Cooperative Extension Service s home demonstration programming between 1914 and 1929 as a means to earn extra income Kathryn L Beasley explores an area of rural women s history that has not been closely examined that is how rural American women involved with home demonstration used the skills they learned as a way to better themselves economically Furthermore Beasley traces how this extra income allowed these women to shape their own producing and consuming habits While most home demonstration programming during the Progressive Era and 1920s focused on ways to save money among other objectives rural women in Alabama and Florida used different strategies to earn more money and gain some economic independence Beasley s research shows how Alabama and Florida s rural women exercised their own determination and resourcefulness to create ways to economically sustain themselves by using food tangible items handicrafts small businesses and more to their advantage However while there were similarities in how these rural women earned extra money the states in which they lived differed in important agricultural ways Florida offered a wider variety of growing and environmental seasons and as a result a larger diversity of crops By taking a comparative approach both Florida versus Alabama and Black versus white Beasley details the unique and innovative ways that rural southern women applied their considerable agricultural and domestic skills to improve their lives and the lives of their families In so doing she also reveals how disposable income helped establish ideas of empowerment and financial independence in the years before the economic struggles of the 1930s Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress. Kakaamotobe Courtney Micots,2021-06-24 Kakaamotobe meaning to scare is known across southern Ghana West Africa as Fancy Dress performance Masqueraders dress in colorful costumes and wear fancy and fierce masks they dance energetically to drums or brass band music through the main streets of town during holidays especially during Christmastime Competitions held in two towns are intense annual events This lively secular masquerade is a carnival form that has been practiced for well over a century primarily by coastal Fante people and many additional ethnicities participate today Kakaamotobe Fancy Dress Carnival in Ghana explores the fascinating history aesthetics performance and underlying messages of this masquerade with ties to other carnivalesque practices in the Black Atlantic While Fancy Dress may engage with global cultures through some of its aesthetics the practice is profoundly African The utilization of elaborate costumes masks and brass bands expresses not a desire to imitate outside cultures but rather the impulse of youth to adapt traditional culture to the contemporary environment Courtney Micots argues that the outward impression of folly belies the more serious refashioning of power identity and modernity in the community

The Genomes of Rosaceous Berries and Their Wild Relatives Timo Hytönen, Julie Graham, Richard Harrison, 2018-06-08 This book collates the most up to date information on Fragaria and Rubus genomes It focuses on the latest advances in the model system Fragaria vesca along with the allied advances in economically important crops Covering both basic and applied aspects of crop genomics it illustrates strategies and resources for the study and utilization of genome sequences and aligned functional genomics resources Rosaceous berries are collectively an increasingly important set of high value global crops with a trade value of over 2 billion dollars per annum The rosaceous berries strawberry raspberry and blackberry share some common features at the genome scale namely a range of ploidy levels in each genus and high levels of heterozygosity and associated inbreeding depression due to self incompatibility systems dioecy or multispecies hybridization events Taken together although the genomes are relatively compact these biological features lead to significant challenges in the assembly and analysis of berry genomes which until very recently have hampered the progress of genome level studies The genome of the woodland strawberry Fragaria vesca a self compatible species with a homozygous genome was first sequenced in 2011 and has served as a foundation for most genomics work in Fragaria and to some extent Rubus Since that time building upon this resource there have been significant advances in the development of genome sequences for related crop species This coupled with the revolution in affordable sequencing technology has led to a suite of genomics studies on Fragaria and more recently Rubus which undoubtedly aid crop breeding and production in future years

INTERLANGUAGE PRAGMATICS OF INVITATION Lestari Ambar Sukesti, 2014-10-20 Understanding grammar does not guarantee speaking or making utterances appropriately Cohen 1996 Thomas 1983 As pragmatics differs from one culture to other second or foreign language learners should acquire the sociopragmatics and pragmalinguistic rules of the foreign or second language to enable them to make communication effectively with native speakers Miscommunication often occurs due to incident that people make use of the rules of their native pragmatics to express intention in other culture without realizing the difference between these two cultures Thomas 1983 Error in grammar could be tolerable but inappropriateness will affect the communication outcomes The conversation may lead to an awkward situation which is not realized by the learners of the language Invitation is a part of speech acts which reflects the actualization of an illocutionary intention of a speaker through utterances either spoken or written The speech act of invitation emerges when someone asks somebody else to attend to a kind of occasion usually the one that is hosted by the inviter Suzuki's findings in his research on making invitation by native American undergraduate students describe 2 different strategies namely Want W and asking for Willingness AW however based on the writer's findings in her research on interlanguage pragmatics of invitation by Indonesian EFL learners there are three more strategies in making invitation namely Performative P Imperative I and Hoping H Gender also influences in making inviting strategies based on social status and familiarity including the use of deference or solidarity markers Male participants use more various solidarity markers especially when the invitation is addressed to female invitees It might happen as male participants try to touch the invitee emotionally and keep close to the invitees Both male and female participants tend to be verbose The more descriptors in the scenarios the more explanations the participants use in inviting others However the most significant finding is that female participants are said to adopt more performative P and hoping strategy H in all situations Female participant is considered expectant to the invitation to be fulfilled by the invitees The contribution of distance power and rank of imposition to the way the participants elicit their politeness strategies was also found in this study When there is a distance between the inviter and the invitee the participants make different ways in making inviting strategies However in the realm of pragmalinguistics the participants cannot differentiate the use of neutral and polite strategies while addressing the invitation to higher level of the invitees It is found out in the use of willingness neutral and imperative strategies by the participants to invitees who are of higher status It might be due to the lack of pragmatics knowledge of the participants toward the language

Being Nuclear Gabrielle Hecht, 2014-08-29 The hidden history of African uranium and what it means for a state an object an industry a workplace to be nuclear Uranium from Africa has long been a major source of fuel for nuclear power and atomic weapons including the bomb dropped on Hiroshima In 2003 after the infamous yellow cake from Niger Africa suddenly became notorious as a source of uranium a component of nuclear weapons But did that admit Niger or any of Africa's other uranium producing countries to the select society of nuclear states Does uranium itself count as a nuclear thing In this book Gabrielle Hecht lucidly probes the question of what it means for something a state an object an industry a workplace to be nuclear Hecht shows that questions about being nuclear a state that she calls nuclearity lie at the heart of today's global nuclear order and the relationships between developing nations often former colonies and nuclear powers often former colonizers Hecht enters African nuclear worlds focusing on miners and the occupational hazard of radiation exposure Could a mine be a nuclear workplace if as in some South African mines its radiation levels went undetected and unmeasured With this book Hecht is the first to put Africa in the nuclear world and the nuclear world in Africa By doing so she remakes our understanding of the nuclear age The Emperor's New Clothes Jonah Kinigstein, 2014-01-08 The Emperor's New Clothes The Tower of Babel in the Art World is an 80 page landscape format book collecting Kinigstein's political cartoons inveighing against the trends of abstract and modern art through the 20th century Meticulously rendered in pen and ink in the tradition of George Townshend and James Gilray the elaborate compositions skewer artists curators and critics

The Sheltering Mark Powell, 2014-08-12 You set yourself up as judge jury and executioner Pamela had said but that was wrong you set yourself up as angel and await the word of God Luther Redding lost his job and almost lost his wife Pamela and teenaged daughters Katie and Lucy when the real estate bubble burst in Florida Now he pilots a Reaper drone over the mountains of Afghanistan from a command center in the bowels of Tampa's MacDill Air Force Base studying a target's pattern of life and awaiting the command to end that life Meanwhile Bobby Rosen has returned home from his tours in Iraq to a broken marriage and an estranged son his promising military career cut short in a moment of terrible violence in a Sadr City marketplace As the tales of Luther and Bobby unfold Mark Powell masterfully engages with the vexing bifurcated lives of combatants in the global war on terror those who are simultaneously here and there and thus never fully freed from the life and death chaos of the battlefield As Bobby sets off on a drug fueled road trip with his brother Donny newly released from prison and consumed by his own inescapable impulses a sudden death in the Redding household sends Luther's daughter Katie spiraling into grief and self destruction Soon the lives of the Reddings and the Rosens intersect as the collateral damage from the war on terror sends these families into a rapid descent of violence and moral ambiguity that seems hauntingly familiar to Bobby while placing Katie in a position much like her father's more removed witness than active participant in the bloody war unfolding in front of her Overarching questions of faith and redemption clash with the rough hewn realities of terror and loss all to explosive ends in Powell's dark vision of modern Americana Novelist Ron Rash has deemed Powell the best Appalachian novelist of his generation In this his fourth novel Powell broadens the southern backdrop of his earlier work into a sprawling thriller taking readers from the Middle East to Charleston southern Georgia

Tampa Miami New Orleans and into the storied American West In its themes perspectives and pacing The Sheltering recalls the work of Robert Stone Jim Harrison and Ben Fountain while further establishing Powell as a unique voice capable of interrogating unfathomable truths with a beauty and cohesion of language that challenges our assumptions of the human spirit

Power Systems and Power Plant Control 1989 U. Nothing to Lose But Our Chains Jane Hardy, 2021-08-20 Capitalism is a dynamic system continually adapting itself to exploit workers in new ways In Britain today the gig economy is its newest form expressed through precarious contracts and the supposed atomisation of workers In this book Jane Hardy argues that despite capitalism s best efforts to stop us we can always find ways to fight it Through a range of case studies from cleaners to university lecturers Hardy looks at how workers are challenging employers assaults in the neoliberal workplace comparing these new actions to a long history of British working class struggle She explores the historic role of migrants in the British workforce from the Windrush generation to more recent arrivals from the European Union as well as placing womens collective action centre stage Analysing the rise of robotics and artificial intelligence she refutes claims that we are entering a post capitalist society Nothing to Lose but our Chains is an optimistic exploration into the power of the working class showing that no matter what tools capitalism uses it can always be resisted
