British Librarianship and Information Work

1991-2000 J.H. Bowman, 2017-07-28 This important reference volume covers developments in almost every aspect of British library and information work during the ten year period 1991-2000. Some forty contributors, all of whom are experts in their subject, provide a robust overview of their specialities along with extensive further references which act as a starting point for further research. The book provides a comprehensive record of what took place in library and information management during a decade of considerable change and challenges. It is an essential reference resource for librarians and information professionals.

Digitizing Collections Lorna M. Hughes, 2004 Part of the Digital Futures series, this book presents information managers with strategic and practical issues to consider when making the decision to digitize their collections. It runs through the process step by step and outlines the techniques available to deal with a range of resources.

Access and Identity Management for Libraries Masha Garibyan, John Paschoud, Simon McLeish, 2014 With the rapid increase in the use of electronic resources in libraries, managing access to online information is an area many librarians struggle with. Managers of online information wish to implement policies about who can access the information and under what terms and conditions, but often they need further guidance. Written by experts in the field, this practical book is the first to explain the principles behind access management, the available technologies, and how they work. This includes an overview of federated access management technologies such as Shibboleth that have gained increasing international recognition in recent years. This book provides detailed case studies describing how access management is being implemented at organizational and national levels in the UK, USA, and Europe, and gives a practical guide to the resources available to help plan, implement, and operate access management in libraries. Key topics include: What is access management and why do libraries do it? Authorization based on user identity or affiliation. Electronic resources: public and not so public. Federated access: history, current position, and future developments. Principles and definitions of identity and access management. How to choose access management and identity management products and services. Current access management technologies. Internet access provided by or in libraries. Authentication technologies. Library statistics. Authorization based on physical location. The business case for libraries. This is essential reading for all who need to understand the principles behind access management or implement a working system in their library.

Investigative Study of Standards for Digital Repositories and Related Services Muriel Foulonneau, Francis André, 2008-01-01 This study is meant for institutional repository managers, service providers, repository software developers, and generally all players taking an active part in the creation of the digital repository infrastructure for e-research and e-learning. It reviews the current standards, protocols, and applications in the domain of digital repositories. Special attention is being paid to the interoperability of repositories to enhance the exchange of data in repositories. It aims to stimulate discussion about these topics and supports initiatives for the integration of and where needed development of new standards. The authors also take a look at the nearby future, which steps have to be taken now in order to comply with future demands.
