

HOW TO LEARN

The Ultimate Cheat Sheet

KEY POINT: How well you learn can make a big difference in work and life. These science-backed techniques help you learn quicker, remember more, and have more fun in the process. Dive in!

MEMORY METHODS

Dual Coding

Pair words w/ visuals to help you understand and remember them better.

Spaced Repetition

You forget most info soon after learning. Review it at intervals to retain it longer.

Memory Palace (Method of Loci)

What: Remember lists (names, facts, groceries) by placing each item in a familiar spot in your mind.

Why: Your brain is good at remembering places and images. Combined, the info sticks better.

How:

1. Think of a place you know well, like your home.
2. Walk through it in your mind. Note specific locations.
3. Attach a piece of info to each spot. Make it vivid.
4. Do a mental walk-thru. Find the info at each spot.

Tip: Unique & colorful images are easier to recall.

STUDY STRATEGIES

Pomodoro Technique

What: Be more productive & retain more by studying in short, focused intervals with breaks in between.

Why: Your brain can only focus well for short periods. Regular breaks refresh and prevent burnout.

How:

1. Pick your study task or topic.
2. Set a timer for 25 minutes. This is one "Pomodoro."
3. Study intensely until the timer goes off.
4. Take a 5-min break. Play a fav song, take a walk, etc.
5. Repeat. After 4 Pomodoros, break for 15-30 mins.

Feynman Technique

What: You know a topic well if you can teach it in simple terms, like to a kid.

How:

1. Choose a topic.
2. Pretend to teach it.
3. Notice stumbles or gaps.
4. Go back & learn more.
5. Try to explain it again.

Interleaving

Mix different topics in a study session for better recall & problem-solving.

SKILL DEVELOPMENT

Josh Kaufman's 20-Hour Rule

What: It only takes about 20 hours of focused practice to gain a decent skill level in something new.

Why: The 1st hours of learning are the toughest. When you push thru the hard part, you start enjoying the skill.

How:

1. Pick a skill to learn: a language, instrument, coding, etc.
2. Break it down into smaller, manageable parts.
3. Dedicate 20 hours total to deliberate practice sessions (15 min/day = 80 days; 60 min/day = 20 days; etc.).

Tip: Stay consistent & committed. It gets easier as you go.

Deliberate Practice

What: Focused learning to master skills faster.

Why: You constantly push your limits and keep refining.

How:

1. Choose a skill you want to learn or improve.
2. Find your weak spots and areas to refine.
3. Pick 1 to work on in a session. Set a specific goal.
4. Get feedback: a coach, friend, or film/watch yourself.
5. Repeat. Push yourself to improve in each session.
