

Discuss the following conditions in your own words using the definitions as your starting point with appropriate examples:

- 1. Use the following terms and describe the changes the following feature the earth:
 - a. plate
 - b. fold

Explain each concept with regard to appropriate mechanisms of different process and how they had been an associated increase that plate.

- 2. Use the following terms and describe the changes the following feature the earth:
 - a. faulting
 - b. fold
 - c. erosion

Explain each concept with regard to appropriate mechanisms of different process and how they had been an associated increase that plate. Explain each concept with regard to appropriate mechanisms of different process and how they had been an associated increase that plate.

- 3. What are the two theoretical geographic differences that represent?

Two key theoretical geographic concepts: plate tectonics and continental drift. They are linked but have different geographic results. The first is a global process of tectonic plates and the second is a local process.

- 4. What are the differences between the two types of plate?

There are two types of plate tectonics: continental and oceanic. They differ in shape, size, and movement. Continental plates are larger and move slower, while oceanic plates are smaller and move faster. They also differ in the amount of subduction. Oceanic plates subduct under both continental and oceanic plates, while continental plates only subduct under oceanic plates. This is due to the fact that continental plates are thicker and more rigid than oceanic plates. Explain each concept with regard to appropriate mechanisms of different process and how they had been an associated increase that plate.

- 5. What is the primary feature of plate tectonics? (What is the main concept?)

The primary feature of plate tectonics is the movement of the earth's crust. This is done by the plates moving in different directions and at different rates. Explain each concept with regard to appropriate mechanisms of different process and how they had been an associated increase that plate.

- 6. How do you define a plate tectonic?
