Colours of Loneliness and Other Stories Paramita Satpathy,2019-05-16 This is a collection of fourteen short stories by Paramita Satpathy These stories are full of characters that conceal their true persona under a veneer of a false confidence who are then are driven to seek a state of euphoria releasing these dormant passions in unguarded moments We have characters like Maya whose life seems to upend the moment spots appear on her body On the other hand for her best friend Veena life seems to be most sorted Everyone seems to pity Maya and she longs to be included to belong Yet as the years progress it is Maya who has created a stable life for herself while Veena is left wondering where she went wrong in life There is also Babula the orphan who has to bear with whatever abuse Bata Sahu throws at him in order to survive and his struggle to break free from it Prachi the bride to be who discovers her fianc s true animalistic nature and Ranjita the new bride who becomes the ultimate pay off for her in laws greed For some protagonists it s the societal shackles they need to break out from for others it is their own closest relations that compel them to take a bold step towards self realization Computers in Art, Design and Animation John Lansdown,Rae Earnshaw,2012-12-06 The collection of papers that makes up this book arises largely from the joint activities of two specialist groups of the British Computer Society namely the Displays Group and the Computer Arts Society Both these groups are now more than 20 years old and during the whole of this time have held regular separate meetings In recent years however the two groups have held a joint annual meeting at which presentations of mutual interest have been given and it is mainly from the last two of these that the present papers have been drawn They fall naturally into four classes visualisation art design and animation although as in all such cases the boundaries between the classes are fuzzy and overlap inevitably occurs Visualisation The graphic potential of computers has been recognised almost since computing was first used but it is only comparatively recently that their possibilities as devices for the visualisation of complex and largely abstract phenomena has begun to be more fully appreciated. Some workers stress the need to be able to model photographic reality in order to assist in this task. They look to better algorithms and more resolution to achieve this end. Others, Alan Mackay for instance, suggest that it is not just a matter of providing more and more pixels. It is a matter of providing congenial clues which employ to the greatest extent what we already know.

Inclusive Innovation Rajeswari S. Raina, Keshab Das, 2020-02-27 This book discusses the role of inclusive innovation for development in rural India. It uses the evidence of innovation in the context of skewed or limited livelihood options and multiple knowledge systems to argue that if inclusive innovation is to happen, the actors and the nature of the innovation system need reform. The book presents cases of substantive technological changes and institutional reforms enabling inclusive innovation in rural manufacturing, sustainable agriculture, health services, and the processes of technological learning in traditional informal networks as well as in formal modern commodity markets. These cases offer lessons to enable learning and change within the state and formal science and technology S T organizations. By focusing on these actors central to development economics and innovation systems framework, the book bridges the widening conceptual gaps between these two parallel knowledge domains and offers options for action by several actors to enable inclusive innovation systems. The content is thus of value to a wide audience consisting of researchers, policy makers, NGOs, and industry observers.
