Exploring the Conditions that Impact Local Administration Responsiveness work to Migrants in selected Metropolitan Municipalities of South Africa Kibreab Habtemichael Gebereselassie, 2022-01-03 Research on local administration responsiveness towards migrants and non citizens revealed that demographic characteristics in local municipalities have often caused challenges for local administrations to be responsive to the diverse needs of their communities Lucio et al 2013 Lucio 2016 The objective of this study was to explore the conditions that impact on the local administration's responsiveness work to migrants in Durban Cape Town Johannesburg metropolitan municipalities of South Africa The study's goal is met by identifying five major conditions that impact the local administration's responsiveness work to migrants in the study areas Conducted in two rounds field research the study used qualitative research design methods Semistructured interviews group discussions field memos and observations were used to collect data Thematic analysis method was implemented to investigate and analyze the collected raw data This dissertation also used relevant theory as framework and guide to uncover elements of local administrative responsiveness which are associated with migrants The study identified and demonstrated that five major conditions impact the local administration's responsiveness work to migrants in the study areas Local administration work environment administration organizational structure and professionalism external control from elected officials and local politics migrant's community association and economic contribution of migrants are the main conditions that impact on the responsiveness work of the local administration The findings also showed that anchored in the above five conditions administrative responsiveness also varies across the selected study areas This study also contributed by adding new insights about the mechanisms on how the local administration can address the issues of migrants who do not have a direct representation in the local government structure

Accordingly for a better responsiveness work to migrants and to support the inclusion of migrants who do not have a direct political representation the study proposes recommendation for policy practice and research that targets on local administration responsiveness work to migrants

Crime, Community and Morality Simon Green, 2014-03-21 Political leaders and the popular press tell us that society is in the grip of a moral crisis Where have our values gone our newspapers scream at us Benefit scroungers greedy bankers intrusive journalists have a go rioters political scandals and criminals of all shapes and sizes are continually cited as evidence that we live in a modern day Gomorrah Criminologists have studied this in several ways including media representations of crime mass incarceration hooliganism and the exercise of power and control through communities What criminologists have not studied is the place of morality in shaping public debate about understanding crime and how this then shapes crime control strategies Rather than dismiss statements about community breakdown broken society and irresponsibility as ideological self justificatory rhetoric what happens when we take these claims seriously What do they tell us about the causes of crime How do they shape the crime control agenda How else might we begin to understand and explain the relationship between crime and society Navigating between criminological concerns about control and governance and social theories about culture and identity this book explores what is meant by crime community and morality and puts this meaning to the test Discussion of a new theory of rule breaking combined with an analysis of how our justice system is becoming maladapted makes this essential reading for criminologists around the globe as well as those general readers interested in the causes of crime

Muriaas, 2017-10-12 Can autocrats establish representative subnational governments And which strategies of manipulation are available if they would like to reduce the uncertainty caused by introducing political decentralisation In the wake of local government reforms several states across the world have introduced legislation that provides for subnational elections This does not mean that representative subnational governments in these countries are all of a certain standard Political decentralisation should not be confused with democratisation as the process is likely to be manipulated in ways that do not produce meaningful avenues for political participation and contestation locally Using examples from Africa Lovise Aalen and Ragnhild L. Muriaas propose five requirements for representative subnational governments and four strategies that national governments might use to manipulate the outcome of political decentralisation The case studies of Ethiopia Malawi South Africa and Uganda illustrate why autocrats sometimes are more open to competition at the subnational level than democrats Manipulating Political Decentralisation provides a new conceptual tool to assess representative subnational governments
