decades but dark tourism research has only sporadically engaged with this topic Similarly the issue of gender has been curiously neglected within dark tourism In addition dark tourism research has tended to shy away from the big challenges facing contemporary societies Through its engagement with a range of critical theories this volume not only addresses gaps in the existing dark tourism literature but also moves the debate forward in exciting new directions This volume is well placed to demonstrate to other disciplines and fields that dark tourism research can be critical theoretically grounded and transformative Duncan Light Styling Masculinity Kristen Barber, 2016-08-24 The twenty first century has seen the emergence of a new style of man the metrosexual Overwhelmingly straight white and wealthy these impeccably coiffed urban professionals spend big money on everything from facials to pedicures all part of a multi billion dollar male grooming industry Yet as this innovative study reveals even as the industry encourages men to invest more in their appearance it still relies on women to do much of the work Styling Masculinity investigates how men s beauty salons have persuaded their clientele to regard them as masculine spaces To answer this question sociologist Kristen Barber goes inside Adonis and The Executive two upscale men s salons in Southern California Conducting detailed observations and extensive interviews with both customers and employees she shows how female salon workers not only perform the physical labor of snipping tweezing waxing and exfoliating but also perform the emotional labor of pampering their clients and pumping up their masculine egos Letting salon employees tell their own stories Barber not only documents occasions when these workers are objectified and demeaned but also explores how their jobs allow for creativity and confer a degree of professional dignity In the process she traces the vast network of economic and social relations that undergird the burgeoning male beauty industry

Transitional Justice and the Politics of Inscription Joseph Robinson, 2017-08-04 Taking Northern Ireland as its primary case study this book applies the burgeoning literature in memory studies to the primary question of transitional justice how shall societies and individuals reckon with a traumatic past Joseph Robinson argues that without understanding how memory shapes moulds and frames narratives of the past in the minds of communities and individuals theorists and practitioners may not be able to fully appreciate the complex emotive realities of transitional political landscapes Drawing on interviews with what the author terms memory curators coupled with a robust analysis of secondary literature from a range of transitional cases the book analyses how the bodies of the dead the injured and the traumatised are written into or written out of transitional justice The author argues that scholars cannot appreciate the dynamism of transitional memory space unless they first engage with the often silenced or marginalised voices whose memories remain trapped behind the antagonistic politics of fear and division Ultimately challenging the imperative of national reconciliation the author argues for a politics of public memory that incubates at multiple nodes of social production and can facilitate a vibrant democratic debate over the ways in which a traumatic past can or should be remembered Integration and Receptivity in Immigrant Gateway Metro Regions in the United States Paul N.
