Startup Communities Brad Feld, 2012 Startup communities are popping up everywhere from cities like Boulder to Boston and even in countries such as Iceland These types of entrepreneurial ecosystems are driving innovation and small business energy Startup Communities documents the buzz strategy long term perspective and dynamics of building communities of entrepreneurs who can feed off of each other s talent creativity and support Based on more than twenty years of Boulder based entrepreneur turned venture capitalist Brad Feld s experience in the field as well as contributions from other innovative startup communities this reliable resource skillfully explores what it takes to create an entrepreneurial community in any city at any time Along the way it offers valuable insights into increasing the breadth and depth of the entrepreneurial ecosystem by multiplying connections among entrepreneurs and mentors improving access to entrepreneurial education and much more Provided by publisher

Startup Communities Brad Feld, 2012-09-06 An essential guide to building supportive entrepreneurial communities Startup communities are popping up everywhere from cities like Boulder to Boston and even in countries such as Iceland These types of entrepreneurial ecosystems are driving innovation and small business energy Startup Communities documents the buzz strategy long term perspective and dynamics of building communities of entrepreneurs who can feed off of each other s talent creativity and support Based on more than twenty years of Boulder based entrepreneur turned venture capitalist Brad Feld s experience in the field as well as contributions from other innovative startup communities this reliable resource skillfully explores what it takes to create an entrepreneurial community in any city at any time Along the way it offers valuable insights into increasing the breadth and depth of the entrepreneurial ecosystem by multiplying connections among entrepreneurs and mentors improving access to entrepreneurial education and much more Details the four critical principles needed to form a sustainable startup community Perfect for entrepreneurs and venture capitalists seeking fresh ideas and new opportunities Written by Brad Feld a thought leader in this field who has been an early stage investor and successful entrepreneur for more than twenty years Engaging and informative this practical guide not only shows you how startup communities work but it also shows you how to make them work anywhere in the world

Startup Communities Brad Feld, 2020-06-26 First published in 2012 Startup Communities became a blueprint for what it takes to build a supportive entrepreneurial community Now regarded as a classic the Boulder Thesis created and popularized by Feld within the book generated enormous media attention nearly a decade ago At that time Boulder was an emerging startup laboratory a hub of innovation building new tech businesses It quickly accelerated into a world class ecosystem for entrepreneurs Boulder s entrepreneurial density combined with the geographic concentration of entrepreneurial activity around the Boulder downtown core made it a hotbed of startup activity Feld was and is still there as a keen observer and one of its leaders As he notes simply in the new edition humans are wired to start things In a sense that short Feld ism accurately describes the startup revolution still taking hold throughout the world Boulder is proof that innovation can happen anywhere in any city Thanks in part to the book what happens in Boulder now leaves Boulder Rapidly growing startup communities in Atlanta Detroit Denver Kansas City Nashville and Indianapolis are just a few examples Over the last decade Feld has dispelled the myth that startups can only thrive in Silicon Valley Startup communities continue to pop up across the U S and around the world prompting fresh new revelations and stories from Feld about what s happened over the last decade Startup Communities 2e describes what makes a startup community ecosystem first click then hum and in time excel From Boulder to Beijing and beyond entrepreneurial ecosystems are driving innovation Startup Communities 2e discusses and the necessary dynamics and pre conditions of building communities of entrepreneurs who can feed off each other s talent creativity and support In Startup Communities 2e Feld will help you understand The core principles of a vibrant startup community re examining his Boulder Thesis and exploring other historical frameworks The attributes of leadership in a startup community that can help it thrive along with the classical problems any community will face during development The importance of a university in a startup community and how large companies can engage effectively with entrepreneurs The importance of continuous improvement so growth does not stagnate The common myths about startup communities The opportunities to build startup communities in non urban or rural places that are much less populated

The Startup Community Way Brad Feld, Ian Hathaway, 2020-06-25 The Way Forward for Entrepreneurship Around the World We are in the midst of a startup revolution The growth and proliferation of innovation driven startup activity is profound unprecedented and global in scope Today it is understood that communities of support and knowledge sharing go along with other resources The importance of collaboration and a long term commitment has gained wider acceptance These principles are adopted in many startup communities throughout the world And yet much more work is needed Startup activity is highly concentrated in large cities Governments and other actors such as large corporations and universities are not collaborating with each other nor with entrepreneurs as well as they could Too often these actors try to control activity or impose their view from the top down rather than supporting an environment that is led from the bottom up We continue to see a disconnect between an entrepreneurial mindset and that of many actors who wish to engage with and support entrepreneurship There are structural reasons for this but we can overcome many of these obstacles with appropriate focus and sustained practice No one tells this story better than Brad Feld and Ian Hathaway The Startup Community Way Evolving an Entrepreneurial Ecosystem explores what makes startup communities thrive and how to improve collaboration in these rapidly evolving complex environments The Startup Community Way is an explanatory guide for startup communities Rooted in the theory of complex systems this book establishes the systemic properties of entrepreneurial ecosystems and explains why their complex nature leads people to make predictable mistakes As complex systems value creation occurs in startup communities primarily through the interaction of the parts the people organizations resources and conditions involved not the parts themselves This continual process of bottom up interactions unfolds naturally producing value in novel and unexpected ways Through these complex emergent processes the whole becomes greater and substantially different than what the parts alone could produce Because of this participants must take a fundamentally different approach than is common in much of our civic and professional lives Participants must take a whole system view rather than simply trying to optimize their individual part They must prioritize experimentation and learning over planning and execution Complex systems are uncertain and unpredictable They cannot be controlled only guided and influenced Each startup community is unique Replication is enticing but impossible The race to become The Next Silicon Valley is futile even Silicon Valley couldn't recreate itself This book Offers practical advice for entrepreneurs community builders government officials and other stakeholders who want to harness the power of entrepreneurship in their city Describes the core components of startup communities and entrepreneurial ecosystems as well as an explanation of the differences between these two related but distinct concepts Advances a new framework for effective startup community building based on the theory of complex systems and insights from systems thinking Includes contributions from leading entrepreneurial voices Is a must have resource for entrepreneurs venture capitalists executives business and community leaders economic development authorities policymakers university officials and anyone wishing to understand how startup communities work anywhere in the world

Teresa Cometto, Alessandro Piol, 2013 Over 1 000 New York based technology startups are currently hiring This may come as a surprise to many who thought of New York as the capital of traditional industries such as financial services media advertising and fashion but not necessarily as a high tech hub Yet it is true over the past several years the level of startup activity in the city of New York has increased at an exponential rate reaching and surpassing Boston in number of tech companies formed and money invested It is good news for the Bloomberg administration that has made the creation of a high tech industry a strategic priority after the financial collapse of 2008 It is also good news for the many investors in the city both angels and venture capitalists who have seen the number of opportunities created increase at a fast rate And it is good news for the entrepreneurs who can finally benefit from a working ecosystem and from an influx of capital not seen since the internet bubble of the late 90s Tech and the City is the first book telling the story of how and why this is happening from the birth of Silicon Alley in the 90s to today s level of activity and important milestones such as the building of the Cornell NYC Tech campus Based on over 50 interviews with entrepreneurs angel investors venture capitalists university professors members of the Bloomberg administration and other stakeholders this book s objective is to inform and inspire the current generation of entrepreneurs Fred Wilson the best known venture capitalists in New York and one of the most important in the US wrote in his foreword I hope this book will be an inspiration to New Yorkers to embrace the technology revolution that has taken hold in our city I also hope it will be an inspiration to other cities countries and cultures who may have missed out on the initial wave of the technology revolution Tech and the City takes us on a historical and geographical tour of New York while addressing the hot themes for entrepreneurs and investors It is also a guide to help navigate the NYC community how to network and become part of the community what to read to understand and keep informed where to raise capital what help is available for any professional entrepreneur student researcher seeking to settle in the city And this is just the basis for an ongoing conversation which we hope will continue on our blog <http://www.techandthecity.com> The authors Alessandro Piol and Maria Teresa Cometto know the story and the industry well Alessandro has been a New Yorker for 35 years and a venture capitalist for 20 during which he has seen firsthand the evolution of the New York entrepreneurial ecosystem He has a deep knowledge of the tech industry and a passionate involvement in the NYC community where he invests in and mentors a number of young entrepreneurs Maria Teresa Cometto is a journalist and award winning author based in New York since 2000 covering business and high tech for the largest Italian daily Corriere della Sera and for other important publications

Global Start-Up Communities Mark Fenwick, 2016 Although economic globalization has transformed contemporary conceptions of space location still matters enormously for both individual entrepreneurs seeking to develop a sustainable business and policy makers looking to foster entrepreneurship within a particular city or region In making the decision where to locate what factors does an entrepreneur need to consider What type of region offers a young firm most support in developing innovative products or services necessary to succeed today And what capacities should government and policy makers be looking to develop in order to ensure that multiple startups decide to start operations in their particular region This paper focuses on three success conditions that we believe are important in assisting entrepreneurs and governments in building successful startups and flourishing startup communities First it is important to understand the main risks facing startup ecosystems notably skepticism theatre and scaling Second the local character or Local DNA and path dependencies of a region are crucial Finally all startup communities need to develop strong links with resources that exist at a global level
