Epistle on Legal Theory is the oldest surviving Arabic work on Islamic legal theory and the foundational document of Islamic jurisprudence Its author Muhammad ibn Idris al Shafi'i d 204 H 820 AD was the eponym of the Shafi'i school of legal thought one of the four rites in Sunni Islam This fascinating work offers the first systematic treatment in Arabic of key issues in Islamic legal thought These include a survey of the importance of Arabic as the language of revelation principles of textual interpretation to be applied to the Qur'an and prophetic Traditions techniques for harmonizing apparently contradictory precedents legal epistemology rules of inference and discussions of when legal interpretation is required The author illustrates his theoretical claims with numerous examples drawn from nearly all areas of Islamic law including ritual law commercial law tort law and criminal law The text thus provides an important window into both Islamic law and legal thought in particular and early Islamic intellectual history in general The Arabic text has been established on the basis of the two most important critical editions and includes variants in the notes while the English text is a new translation by a leading scholar of Shafi'i and his thought The Epistle on Legal Theory represents one of the earliest complete works on Islamic law one that is centrally important for the formation of Islamic legal thought and the Islamic legal tradition Publishing the Woman Writer in England, 1670-1750 Leah Orr, 2023-06-14 In the late seventeenth and eighteenth centuries the woman writer emerged as a category of authorship in England Publishing the Woman Writer in England 1670 1750 seeks to uncover how exactly this happened and the ways publishers tried to market a new kind of author to the public Based on a survey of nearly seven hundred works with female authors from this period this book contends that authorship was constructed not always by the author for market appeal that biography often supported an authorial persona rooted in the genre of the work and that authorship was a role rather than an identity Through an emphasis on paratexts including prefaces title pages portraits and biographical notes Leah Orr analyses the representation of women writers in this period of intense change to make two related arguments First women writers were represented in a variety of ways as publishers sought successful models for a new kind of writer in print Second a new approach is needed for studying early women writers and others who occupy gaps in the historical record This book shows that a study of the material contexts of printed books is one way to work with the evidence that survives It therefore begins with a very familiar kind of author centric literary history and deconstructs it to conclude with a reception centered history that takes a more encompassing view of authorship In addition to analysis of many little known and anonymous authors case studies include Aphra Behn Catharine Trotter Cockburn Laetitia Pilkington Marie Catherine d Aulnoy and Anne Dacier
