Smark Scheme January 2006:

The Social Construction of Meaning John Yandell, 2013-09-27 This book takes a fresh look at secondary urban English classrooms and at what happens when students and their teachers explore literature collaboratively By closely examining what happens in English lessons minute by minute it reveals how literary texts function not as a valorised heritage to be transmitted but as a resource for the students work of cultural production and contestation The reading that is undertaken in classrooms has tended to be construed as either a poor substitute or merely a preparation for other reading particularly for that paradigmatic literacy event the absorbed and simultaneously discriminating consumption of the literary text by the independent private reader This book argues for a different understanding of what constitutes reading an understanding that is informed by historical and ethnographic perspectives and by psychological and semiotic theory It presents the case for a conception of reading as an active collaborative process of meaning making and for a fully social model of learning Drawing extensively on data gathered through classroom observation and filming of English lessons taught over the course of a year by two teachers in a London secondary school the book explores students engagement with literary texts and the pedagogy that facilitates this engagement The book offers new insights into reading and reading literature in particular It challenges the paradigm of reading that is offered in government policy and the assumption common to much work within the field of new literacies that schooled literacy is the already known the default against which the alternative literacy practices of homes and communities can be defined It will be valuable reading for researchers teachers teacher educators and postgraduate students and will have particular appeal for those with an interest in the fields of English studies and literacy

EU Emissions Trading Dr Jon Birger Skjærseth, Mr Jørgen Wettstad, 2013-03-28

The EU Emissions Trading

Scheme EU ETS has been characterized as one of the most far reaching and radical environmental policies for many years. Given the EU's earlier resistance to this market based and US flavoured programme the development and implementation of the EU ETS has been rapid. This novel approach to environmental regulation has the potential to affect not only greenhouse gas emissions in the EU but also international strategies for climate change protection. This book investigates the origins, evolution and consequences of the EU ETS and offers significant contributions to the literatures on climate policy and EU policy making.

Shipping Interdiction and the Law of the Sea Douglas Guilfoyle, 2009-08-13 In this comparative study of shipping interdiction Douglas Guilfoyle considers the State action of stopping, searching and arresting foreign flag vessels and crew on the high seas in cases such as piracy, slavery, drug smuggling, fisheries management, migrant smuggling, the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and maritime terrorism. Interdiction raises important questions of jurisdiction including how permission to board a foreign vessel is obtained, whether boarding State or flag State law applies during the interdiction or whether both apply and which State has jurisdiction to prosecute any crimes discovered. Rules on the use of force and protection of human rights, compensation for wrongful interdiction and the status of boarding State officers under flag State law are also examined. A unified and practical view is taken of the law applicable across existing interdiction regimes based on an extensive survey of state practice.

Energy and American Society - Thirteen Myths Benjamin K. Sovacool, Marilyn A. Brown, 2007-05-04 Current events related to energy policy, skyrocketing gasoline prices, the 2003 Northeast Blackout, the Kyoto Protocol's enactment, passage of the Energy Policy Act of 2005 and the influence of recent Gulf Coast hurricanes on energy supplies and prices demand innovative approaches towards conceptualizing the relationship between energy and American society. This book takes on a central quandary in the study of energy and environmental policy: What myths continue to exist in American culture concerning energy, the environment and society? It enrolls twenty-four of the nation's top experts working on energy policy in industry, government, laboratories, utilities, nonprofit organizations and universities to debunk and contextualize thirteen energy myths relating to electric power, renewable energy, energy efficiency, transportation and climate change. While the book focuses on the American experience it will be of interest to those working in the fields of energy policy, energy and the environment and technology assessment worldwide. This is a brilliant, bold and fascinating book that should be read by anybody even remotely concerned about energy, the environment or the future of American society. Art Rosenfeld, Commissioner, California Energy Commission and recipient of the 2006 Enrico Fermi Award. This work is a must read for anyone interested in American energy policy. Kateri Callahan, President, Alliance to Save Energy. By collecting the best minds to debunk the greatest of these myths, Sovacool and Brown have brought us a step closer to finding a national energy policy based on common sense. Chris Cooper, Executive Director, Network for New Energy Choices. Sovacool and Brown provide a bold and imaginative way forward. John A. Skip Laitner, Visiting Fellow and Senior Economist, American Council for an Energy Efficient Economy.
