A Filtered Life Nicole Taylor, Mimi Nichter, 2021-12-23 A Filtered Life is the first comprehensive ethnographic account to explore how college students create and manage multiple identities on social media Drawing on interviews and digital ethnographic data gleaned from popular social media platforms the authors document and make visible routinized practices that are typically hidden and operating behind the scenes They introduce the concept of digital multiples wherein students strategically present themselves differently across social media platforms This requires both the copious production of content and the calculated development of an instantly recognizable aesthetic or brand Taylor and Nichter examine key contradictions that emerged from student narratives including presenting a self that is both authentic and highly edited appearing upbeat even during emotionally difficult times and exuding body positivity even when frustrated with how you look Students struggled with this series of impossibilities yet they felt compelled to maintain a vibrant online presence With its close up portrayal of the social and embodied experiences of college students A Filtered Life is ideal for students and scholars interested in youth studies digital ethnography communication and new forms of media

Friendship, Robots, and Social Media Alexis M. Elder, 2017-12-15 Various emerging technologies from social robotics to social media appeal to our desire for social interactions while avoiding some of the risks and costs of face to face human interaction But can they offer us real friendship In this book Alexis Elder outlines a theory of friendship drawing on Aristotle and contemporary work on social ontology and then uses it to evaluate the real value of social robotics and emerging social technologies In the first part of the book Elder develops a robust and rigorous ontology of friendship what it is how it functions what harms it and how it relates to familiar ethical and philosophical questions about character value and well being In Part II she applies this ontology to emerging trends in social robotics and human robot interaction including robotic companions for lonely seniors therapeutic robots used to teach social skills to children on the autism spectrum and companionate robots currently being developed for consumer markets Elder articulates the moral hazards presented by these robots while at the same time acknowledging their real and measurable benefits In the final section she shifts her focus to connections between real people especially those enabled by social media Arguing against critics who have charged that these new communication technologies are weakening our social connections Elder explores ways in which text messaging video chats Facebook and

Snapchat are enabling us to develop sustain and enrich our friendship in new and meaningful ways Communication
