Hugh Whittaker,2024-01-23 Japan is attempting to build a new economy It goes by various names such as Society 5 0 sustainable capitalism and new form of capitalism It is to be constructed through digital and green transformation and a virtuous cycle of growth and distribution The effort faces strong headwinds including demographic decline and ageing Japan s external energy dependence and geopolitical turbulence and the legacies of Japan s lost decades Nonetheless since 2015 a path has been identified that steers between Big Tech market oligopoly on the one hand and an overbearing state on the other For others facing the same post neoliberal sustainability transformation challenges as Japan this public private coordinated building effort is noteworthy Building a New Economy uses an evolutionary conceptual framework of states and markets organizations and technology and institutional change It shows how the institutional coherence of the manufacturing centred postwar model broke down and was followed by the ideological and institutional dissonance of the lost decades However new institutional building blocks have been identified and partially assembled which could lead Japan towards a new model which is more open and adaptive These blocks include a reconfigured developmental state and new forms of coordination with and within the corporate sector at times encompassing civil society Importantly for a country that has favoured social stability over creative destruction and has struggled with change the path forward may require controlled dis equilibrium of institutions rather than tight coherence Society 5 0 and the new form of capitalism claim to be people centred making them so will be the crucial challenge

The Routledge Handbook of Technology, Crime and Justice M. R. McGuire, Thomas Holt, 2017-02-24 Technology has become increasingly important to both the function and our understanding of the justice process Many forms of criminal behaviour are highly dependent upon technology and crime control has become a predominantly technologically driven process one where traditional technological aids such as fingerprinting or blood sample analysis are supplemented by a dizzying array of tools and techniques including surveillance devices and DNA profiling This book offers the first comprehensive and holistic overview of global research on technology crime and justice. It is divided into five parts each corresponding with the key stages of the offending and justice process. Part I addresses the current conceptual understanding of technology within academia and the criminal justice system. Part II gives a comprehensive overview of the current relations between technology and criminal behaviour. Part III explores the current technologies within crime control and the ways in which technology underpins contemporary formal and informal social control. Part IV sets out some of the fundamental impacts technology is now having upon the judicial process. Part V reveals the emerging technologies for crime control and justice and considers the extent to which new technology can be effectively regulated. This landmark collection will be essential reading for academics, students and theorists within criminology, sociology, law, engineering and technology and computer science as well as practitioners and professionals working within and around the criminal justice system.
