Towards A Sociology Of The Novel:

Towards a Sociology of the Novel Lucien Goldmann, 1975 Towards a Sociology of the Novel Lucien Goldmann, 1977 Towards the sociology of the novel Lucien Goldmann, 1975 Becoming a Reader J. A. Appleyard, Joseph Albert Appleyard, 1994-01-28

Becoming a Reader in allowing us to predict our reading experience allows us as adults to choose what to do with the power which reading gives us Towards a Sociology of the Novel: Introduction to the problems of a sociology of the novel ; Introduction to a structural study of Malraux's novels ; The nouveau roman and reality ; L'Immortelle ; The genetic-structuralist method in the history of literature Lucien Goldmann, 1975 Towards a Sociology of the Novel: a Phenomenological Interpretation of Fyodor Dostoevsky's Crime and Punishment Michael C. Maher, 1997 Literature, Culture and Society Andrew Milner, 2017-09-19

As cultural studies has grown from its origins on the margins of literary studies it has tended to discard both literature and sociology in favour of the semiotics of popular culture. Literature Culture and Society makes a determined attempt to re-establish the connections between literary studies, cultural studies and sociology. Arguing against both literary humanism and sociological relativism, it provides a critical overview of theoretical approaches to textual analysis from hermeneutics to postmodernism and presents a substantive account of the capitalist literary mode of production. This second edition has been fully revised and rewritten with new sections including the impact of psychoanalysis and post-structuralism and the recent work of academics such as Franco Moretti. New case studies have been added in order to examine the intertextual connections between Genesis Milton's Paradise Lost, Frankenstein in Mary Shelley's original and also in several film versions, Karel Capek's R.U.R., Fritz Lang's Metropolis, Ridley Scott's Blade Runner, The X-Files and Buffy the Vampire Slayer.

The Preparation of the Novel Roland Barthes, 2010-11-23

Completed just weeks before his death, these lectures mark a critical juncture in the career of Roland Barthes, declaring the intention deeply felt to compose a novel through an entirely untested method of writing. Unfolding over the course of two years, Barthes engaged in a unique pedagogical experiment: he would combine teaching and writing to simulate the creation of a novel, exploring every step of the collaborative process. Along the way, Barthes's lectures move from the inception of an idea and the need to write something to the actual decision-making, planning and material act of producing a book. He meets the difficulty of transitioning from short, concise expressions exemplified by his favorite literary form, haiku, to longer, uninterrupted flows of narrative, and he encounters a number of trials and setbacks. Barthes takes solace in a diverse group of writers, including Dante, whose own opus was similarly inspired by the death of a loved one. He also turns to classical philosophy and Taoism and the works of Chateaubriand, Flaubert, Kafka and Proust. This volume includes eight elliptical plans for Barthes's unwritten novel, which he titled Vita Nova, and notes that shed light on the critic's view of photography. Along with Columbia University Press's The Neutral, Lecture Course at the Collège de France, 1977-1978, and a third forthcoming collection of Barthes's lectures, this volume completes a profound exploration into the labor and love of writing The Spatial Logic of Social Struggle Nikolaus Fogle, 2011-04-07 Pierre Bourdieu's theory of practice is widely regarded as among the most innovative and illuminating fruits of recent social thought. As evidence mounts that the spatial turn in the social sciences and humanities is no mere theoretical fad but rather an enduring paradigm of social and cultural research, Bourdieu's status as a profoundly spatial thinker takes on a renewed importance. The Spatial Logic of Social Struggle A Bourdieuan Topology focuses on Bourdieu's philosophy of space, arguing that space is at once a condition for social knowledge, a methodological instrument, and a physical context for practice. By considering Bourdieu's theory of social space and fields alongside his several accounts of socially potent physical spaces, Nikolaus Fogle develops an understanding of the systematic co-determinations between social and physical space. He traces Bourdieu's ideas about the spatiality of social life through his investigations of Algerian peasant villages and Gothic cathedrals, as well as spaces of class lifestyle and cultural creation, revealing that social and environmental struggles are only logical insofar as they are topological. He also demonstrates how a Bourdieuan dialectical understanding of social and physical space can be brought to bear on contemporary issues in architecture and urban development. This book will be useful and accessible not only to philosophers but also to architects, geographers, sociologists, and other scholars in the social sciences and humanities who take an interest in the social theory of space. An Introduction to Exploring the Novel For African Higher Education Dr. Casimir Adjoe,

This introductory book discusses the essentials of understanding and interpreting the novel through the awareness of the basis of the construction of the literary piece upon language and social structural considerations and outlines. It is designed mainly for postgraduate students in African higher education exploring ways of approaching the interpretation and meaning-making of narratives in particular of novels and those learning how to teach literature to students. It is rooted in the Sociology of Literature and Literary Theory. Dickens: Novelist in the Market-Place James M Brown, 1982-02-18

Towards a Sociology of African Literature Chidi Amuta, 1986 An Introduction to the African Prose Narrative Lokangaka Losambe, 2004 This collection of essays introduces students of African literature to the heritage of the African prose narrative, starting from its oral base and covering its linguistic and cultural diversity. The book brings together essays on both the classics and the relatively new works in all subgenres of the African prose narrative, including the traditional epic, the novel, the short story, and the autobiography. The chapters are arranged according to the respective thematic paradigms under which the discussed works fall. Marxism and Totality Martin Jay, 1984 Totality has been an abiding concern from the first generation of Western Marxists, most notably Lukács, Korsch, Gramsci, and Bloch, through the second, exemplified by the Frankfurt School, Lefebvre, Goldmann, Sartre, Merleau-Ponty, and Della Volpe, up to the most recent, typified by Althusser, Colletti, and Habermas. Yet no consensus has been reached concerning the term's multiple meanings: expressive, decentered, longitudinal, latitudinal, normative, or its implications for other theoretical and practical matters. By closely following the adventures of this troublesome but central concept, Marxism and Totality offers an unconventional account of the history of

The Digital Future of English Simone Murray, 2025-07-18 More than any other academic discipline literary studies is the creation of print culture How then can it thrive in the digital era Early 1990s predictions of the book s imminent demise presented a simplistic either/or choice between the legacy of moribund print and triumphalist digital technology Yet we have grown to experience the two media as complexly interdependent and even complementary Clearly digital does not kill print

But literary studies in the digital era cannot simply resume business as usual. It is urgently necessary to reconsider the discipline's founding assumptions in light of digital technology. The digital era prompts a rethinking of literary studies' object of study as well as its methods, theories, audiences, and pedagogical practices. What counts as literature necessarily shifts in an age of proliferating born-digital texts and do-it-yourself DIY online publication. Where should literary studies sit institutionally, and how might it graft contextually oriented social sciences methods onto its traditionally humanistic mode of textual analysis? Why should literary study continue to marginalize emotional responses to texts when online communities bond via readerly affect? Who is the audience for literary criticism in an age where expertise is routinely challenged yet communication with global book-loving publics has never been technologically easier? Finally, how can we utilize digital tools to rejuvenate literary studies pedagogy and help English staff better connect with millennial-age students? Literary studies has been convulsed for decades by debates over electronic literature and more recently digitally aided distant reading. But these discussions still mostly confine themselves to demarcating our proper object of study. We need to think more expansively about digital technology's impact on the underpinning tenets of the discipline. Literary Media Studies is pitched at fellow literary scholars, book historians, media theorists, cultural sociologists, digital humanists, and those working at the interface of these converging disciplines. It models constructive engagement with contemporary digital culture. Most importantly, it brings a burst of sorely needed optimism to the question of literary studies' digital future.
