Introduction

It is unfair to measure success at Year 11 through a series of exams in each subject. Exam success measures only the knowledge and skills demonstrated in subject areas while ignoring pupil achievement in sporting and cultural pursuits or social development. The exam system places unnecessary stress on students without providing an adequate measure of learning or work undertaken throughout the year. More than anything, it measures a student's skill in sitting exams.

Body

The stress of trying to prove their worth in just three hours can put quite a strain on some students. Everyone has heard of at least one student who, despite their hard work and intellect, has become overcome by the stressful nature of the exam and failed to write anything. Teenagers are undergoing major mental development at this stage on their lives and any stress they feel can cause long lasting or even permanent damage. Often it is the students who are most able who try the hardest and put the most strain on themselves who suffer the most. This stress can manifest itself in other areas of students' lives and cause problems outside of school. However, exam stress does not affect all students equally. Some students can handle stress better despite not being as able. This means that exams do not have the intended effect of testing student knowledge but rather student's ability to handle stress.

Conclusion

So, as you can see measuring success at Year 11 by using exams is unfair. It ignores other student achievement outside of the classroom, places unnecessary strain on already fragile students and really only determines who is good at sitting exams. Alternatives such as coursework which test student knowledge throughout the year and methods to measure student achievement in non-academic areas must be introduced to provide a fair representation of student ability. Student success and failure at Year 11 has a major affect on the options available to students beyond school and the current system disadvantages those who might otherwise go on to make major contributions towards society.

How to Write Art History Anne D'Alleva, 2006

An invaluable handbook How to Write Art History enables students to get the most from their art history course. In a clear and engaging style, Anne D'Alleva empowers readers to approach their coursework with confidence and energy. The book introduces two basic art historical methods: formal analysis and contextual analysis, revealing how to use these methods in writing papers and in class discussion. The common strengths and weaknesses of an art history essay are highlighted by using real examples of written work, and at each stage of the writing process, D'Alleva offers valuable advice on developing an argument convincingly. In addition, she explains the most effective methods of note taking and outlines strategies for reviewing images, essential tools when preparing for an exam. Providing a fascinating view of the study of art history within its historical context, this book will be particularly helpful for those considering a career in this rewarding discipline.

Mobility and Migration in Film and Moving Image Art Nilgun Bayraktar, 2015-12-07. Mobility and Migration in Film and Moving Image Art explores cinematic and artistic representations of migration and mobility in Europe from the 1990s to today. Drawing on theories of migrant and diasporic cinema, moving image art, and mobility studies, Bayraktar provides historically situated close readings of films, videos, and cinematic installations that concern migratory networks and infrastructures across Europe, the Middle East, and Africa. Probing the notion of Europe as a coherent entity and a borderless space, this interdisciplinary study investigates the ways in which European ideals of mobility and fluidity are deeply enmeshed with forced migration, illegalization, and xenophobia. With a specific focus on distinct forms of mobility such as labor migration, postcolonial migration, tourism, and refugee mobilities, Bayraktar studies the new counter-hegemonic imaginations invoked by the work of filmmakers such as Ayşe Polat, Fatih Akin, Michael Haneke, and Tony Gatlif, as well as video essays and installations of artists such as Kutlu Ataman, Ursula Biemann, Ergin Avcu, Maria Iorio, and Raphaël Cuomo. Challenging aesthetic as well as national, cultural, and political boundaries, the works central to this book envision Europe as a diverse, inclusive, and unfixed continent that is reimagined from many elsewhere, well beyond its borders. Harper's New

Writing Essays About Literature

Katherine O. Acheson, 2010-12-20. This book gives students an answer to the question: What does my professor want from this essay? In lively, direct language, it explains the process of creating a clearly written argument based on evidence about the meaning, power, or structure of a literary work. Using a single poem by William Carlos Williams as the basis for the process of writing a paper about a piece of literature, it walks students through the processes of reading, brainstorming, researching secondary sources, gathering evidence, and composing and editing the paper. Writing Essays About Literature is designed to strengthen argumentation skills and deepen understanding of the relationships between the reader, the author, the text, and critical interpretations. Its lessons about clarity, precision, and the importance of providing evidence will have wide relevance for student writers. Fit to Print: the

Canadian Student's Guide to Essay Writing Joanne Buckley, 1987 Legal Knowledge and Information Systems Enrico Francesconi, Giovanni Sartor, Daniela Tiscornia, 2008 From its very beginning legal informatics was mostly limited to the study of legal databases but very early on the Institute of Legal Information Theory and Techniques ITTIG started being involved with the specific topic of the Jurix conference namely knowledge based systems This book includes programmatic papers with precise accounts of applications and prototypes In many domains the focus has changed For instance research in retrieval has moved from classical Boolean systems into the management of documents in the Web It addresses in particular standards and methods for embedding machine readable information into such documents and search methods that deal with heterogeneous information Similarly with regard to legal concepts the focus has moved from thesauri to ontologies or to techniques for the automatic extraction of concepts from natural language texts In the domain of legal reasoning merely deductive inferences have been expanded with models of legal argumentation dialogue and mediation The conference Logica informatica e diritto 1981 and Jurix 2008 share the connection between theoretical models and the development of applications and prototypes However while in 1981 one could mostly see a juxtaposition of papers in legal theory and papers in computer applications in 2008 we can see how discussions of issues in legal theory are embedded within contributions to legal informatics This shows how research in legal informatics is increasingly becoming an autonomous domain of scientific inquiry by creatively incorporating and developing knowledge and methods from the two disciplines from which it originates legal theory and computer science while preserving links with them Essays in Exposition Benjamin Putnam Kurtz, 1914
