Architect's Legal Handbook Anthony Speaight, Gregory Stone (MA.), 2010 Previous ed Oxford Elsevier Architectural 2004

Between Preservation and Exploitation Kemi Fuentes-George, 2016-03-25 A study of biodiversity governance analyzes the factors that determine the effectiveness of transnational advocacy networks and the importance of justice claims to conservation In the late 2000s ordinary citizens in Jamaica and Mexico demanded that government put a stop to lucrative but environmentally harmful economic development activities bauxite mining in Jamaica and large scale tourism and overfishing on the eastern coast of the Yucatán Peninsula In each case the catalyst for the campaign was information gathered and disseminated by transnational advocacy networks TANs of researchers academics and activists Both campaigns were successful despite opposition from industry supporters Meanwhile simultaneous campaigns to manage land in another part of the Yucatán and to conserve migratory birds in Egypt had far less success In this book Kemi Fuentes George uses these four cases to analyze factors that determine the success or failure of efforts by TANs to persuade policymakers and private sector actors in developing countries to change environmental behavior Fuentes George argues that in order to influence the design and implementation of policy TANs must generate a scientific consensus create social relationships with local actors and advocate for biodiversity in a way that promotes local environmental justice Environmentally just policies would allow local populations access to their lands provided they use natural resources sustainably Justice claims are also more likely to generate needed support among local groups for conservation projects In their conservation efforts Jamaica Mexico and Egypt were attempting to meet their obligations under the UN Convention on Biological Diversity and other regional agreements Fuentes George's innovative analysis shows the importance of local environmental justice for the implementation of international environmental treaties

Law and Policy for a New Economy Melissa K. Scanlan, 2017-05-26 This book makes the case for a New Environmentalism and using a systems change approach takes the reader through ideas for reorienting the economy It addresses the laws and policies needed to support the emergence of a new economy across a variety of major areas from energy to food across common pool resources and shifting investments to capitalize locally connected and mission driven businesses The authors take the approach that the challenges are much broader than setting parameters around pollution and go to the heart of the dominant global political economy It explores the values needed to transform our current economic system into a new economy supportive of ecological integrity social justice and vibrant democracy

Collins, Philip Moren, 2009 Suitable for architects and developers this title offers practical guidance to the many other construction professionals private individuals and interest groups who struggle to find their way around the complex and expanding planning maze in England and Wales Aimed not only at architects and developers this fully updated new edition of this popular RIBA Good Practice Guide offers concise and accessible practical guidance to the many other construction professionals private individuals and interest groups who struggle to find their way around the complex and expanding planning maze in England and Wales It explains how to deal effectively with and avoid the pitfalls of the recently revised plan making regime and the planning application process and how to keep abreast with further expected changes in planning law and practice

The Demoralization of Teachers Dan Wang, 2013-05-16 The educational system in China is marked by its dramatic inequality between rural and urban schools The challenges facing rural schools are usually understood as disadvantages in funding facilities and staffing which consequently result in undesirable student performance in general This book however penetrates these phenomena on the surface and brings forth a much deeper moral crisis in rural education a crisis that is entrenched in the complicated interlocking of formal and informal institutions within and beyond the school The Demoralization of Teachers describes the work and workplace in a rural school from the perspective of teachers who were working there It faithfully depicts the lamentable state of teachers work morale in the school and little by little as if a detective story reveals the reasons for the teachers demoralization by vivid narratives The book demonstrates the profound impact on the meanings of teaching exerted by the state curriculum reform the formal and informal norms and regulations in the school and the erosion of moral integrity in the state bureaucracy and the society at large The crisis in the rural school stops to be a rural or educational problem in nature but mirrors the societal wide transformation in political economy as well as in ideology in the current reform China The sheer complexity of the moral crisis in this ethnography calls for renewed efforts to identify and investigate the educational problems in rural China from fresh theoretical perspectives that situate rural education in broader historical and social contexts and processes

litigious society It is therefore incumbent upon all of us in construction and urban design disciplines to pursue a set of goals that not only preserve existing trees where we can but also ensure that new plantings are appropriately specified and detailed to enable their successful establishment and growth to productive maturity Aimed at developers urban planners urban designers landscape architects and arboriculturists this book takes a candid look at the benefits that trees provide alongside the threats that are eliminating them from our towns and cities It takes a simple applied approach that explores a combination of science and practical experience to help ensure a pragmatic and reasoned approach to decision making in terms of tree selection specification placement and establishment In this way trees can successfully be incorporated within our urban landscapes so that we can continue to reap the benefits they provide Town and Country Planning in the UK Barry Cullingworth, Simin Davoudi, David Webb, Geoff Vigar, John Pendlebury, Tim Townshend, Menelaos Gkartzios, Trevor Hart, Vincent Nadin, 2024-08-30 Town and Country Planning in the UK provides one of the most authoritative and comprehensive accounts of British planning history institutions legislation policies processes and practices This 16th edition has been substantially revised and re organised to provide an up to date overview of the planning systems in the four nations of the UK supported by analyses interpretations illustrations and examples from planning practice The new edition features details of the legislative and policy changes since 2015 and discussion of their implications including the early stages of the Levelling Up and Regeneration Act 2023 discussion of environmental policies and programmes and the impact of Brexit on environmental regulatory landscape in Britain changes to climate change and resilience policies notably the government's Net Zero agenda and their implications for planning updates to the substantive issues in plan making especially the responses to the shortage of affordable housing and the development of major infrastructure changes to the processes involved in plan making and development management an expanded and revised chapter on design to include the growing significance of public health in the built environment major revisions to the chapter on rural planning revisions of the text on planning theory especially in relation to management of conflicts over the use and development of land extended discussion of politics professionalism and participation in planning The 16th edition of Town and Country Planning in the UK is an ideal starting point for those who are studying or working in the planning field and for other professionals who need to locate their work in the planning context Flood Risk Science and Management Gareth Pender, Hazel Faulkner, 2010-12-01

Approaches to avoid loss of life and limit disruption and damage from flooding have changed significantly in recent years Worldwide there has been a move from a strategy of flood defence to one of flood risk management Flood risk management includes flood prevention using hard defences where appropriate but also requires that society learns to live with floods and that stakeholders living in flood prone areas develop coping strategies to increase their resilience to flood impacts when these occur This change in approach represents a paradigm shift which stems from the realisation that continuing to strengthen and extend conventional flood defences is unsustainable economically environmentally and in terms of social equity Flood risk management recognises that a sustainable approach must rest on integrated measures that reduce not only the probability of flooding but also the consequences This is essential as increases in the probability of inundation are inevitable in many areas of the world due to climate change while socio economic development will lead to spiralling increases in the consequences of flooding unless land use in floodplains is carefully planned Flood Risk Science and Management provides an extensive and comprehensive synthesis of current research in flood management providing a multi disciplinary reference text covering a wide range of flood management topics Its targeted readership is the international research community from research students through to senior staff and flood management professionals such as engineers planners government officials and those with flood management responsibility in the public sector By using the concept of case study chapters international coverage is given to the topic ensuring a world wide relevance Spatial Planning and Climate Change Elizabeth Wilson, Jake Piper, 2010-09-13 The effects of climate change on spatial planning are discussed thoroughly in this comprehensive book which includes information on recent legislation case studies from the UK and Netherlands general information on climate change progress and what can be done to reduce the risks from the changing natural environmental
