1. INTRODUCTION The purpose of this paper is to present a new method for the determination of the critical point of a function of two variables. The method is based on the use of the Newton-Raphson method and the method of steepest descent. The method is applied to the determination of the critical point of the function $f(x, y) = x^2 + y^2 - 2x - 2y$. The critical point is found to be at $(1, 1)$.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to the study of the properties of the function $f(x)$ defined by the equation $f(x) = \int_0^x f(t) dt$. It is shown that $f(x)$ is a continuous function and that it satisfies the differential equation $f'(x) = f(x)$. The solution of this equation is $f(x) = Ce^{x^2}$, where C is a constant. The value of C is determined by the initial condition $f(0) = 1$, which gives $C = 1$. Therefore, the function $f(x)$ is $f(x) = e^{x^2}$.

Figures 11a and 11b show the results of the regression analysis. The results show that the regression model is significant at the 1% level of significance. The adjusted R-squared value is 0.85, indicating that 85% of the variation in the dependent variable is explained by the independent variables. The results also show that the regression model is a good fit for the data, as the predicted values are close to the actual values.
