The Annual of Psychoanalysis, V. 22 Jerome A. Winer, 2013-05-13 Volume 22 of The Annual of Psychoanalysis begins with the provocative reflections of Jane Flax and Robert Michels on the current status and future prospects of psychoanalysis a century after Freud Flax believes that analysis will not survive in the postmodern West if analysts cling to the medical model and the notion of analysis as a clinical science Michels believes analysis will be revived in the next century by reorganizing its training institutes within universities A section on Psychoanalysis and the Visual Arts includes John Gedo's probing examination of the inner world of Paul Gauguin and William Meissner's reflections on Vincent van Gogh as artist Johann Michael Rotmann's examination of the transferential meanings of third party payment within Germany's health insurance system is a timely consideration of issues that are increasingly salient for American analysts and therapists A rich harvest of theoretical and clinical papers rounds out this volume of The Annual In A Time of Questioning Leon Wurmser responds to the inner and outer challenges before analysis in a closely reasoned defense of the applicability of classical analytic technique to severely disturbed patients Michael Hoit examines the noninterpretive interactive aspects of the analytic relationship arguing that the analyst's noninterpretive activities are intrinsic to treatment and must be incorporated into the theory of therapeutic action In Fables as Psychoanalytic Metaphors Elaine Caruth describes some psychoanalytic metaphors contained within the lessons of the Aesopian fables proposing that the fables address interpersonal and group conflicts that often involve moral issues Wilma Bucci offers her multiple code theory as a new model of emotion and mind based on current theory and research in cognitive science that can account for clinical concepts and provide coherent framework for empirical research And Ralph Roughton uses the case history of Laura to underscore the central role of repetition and interaction in the analytic process Volume 22 will not disappoint readers of this distinguished continuing series Like its predecessors it is a thoroughly assembled collection responsive to the conceptual clinical and institutional challenges now before the field

The Projective Use of Mother-and-child Drawings

Jacquelyn Gillespie,1994 First Published in 1995 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company The Projective Use Of Mother-And- Child Drawings: A Manual Jacquelyn Gillespie,2013-08-21 A unique and powerful new projective technique is now available to mental health professionals Based on the most primary of human relationships that between mother and child this technique is able to foster projections and identify perceptions of self and others that carry an unusually strong component of unconscious material Strikingly clear and accessible The Projective Use of Mother and Child Drawings is one of the few books on projective techniques to provide a consistent theoretical outlook and to address the very significant issues of transference and countertransference as they relate to this technique While firmly grounded in a psychodynamic view of personality development the volume also conveys a clinical outlook with applications suitable to a variety of theoretical paradigms The author comprehensively considers the theoretical and practical aspects of mother and child drawings and how to both use and assess them to gain insight into the most fundamental reaches of the self She consistently cautions against overly simplified interpretations of the drawings and stresses the importance of using conclusions drawn from them only as indications for further assessment confirmation or rejection The book is replete with examples of mother and child drawings from all age groups in both average populations and those with both mental and physical pathologies The volume opens with a careful discussion of the theoretical considerations behind mother and child drawings as well as the development and validation of projective drawing techniques in general The next section on research issues discourages diagnostic labeling in favor of making optimum use of the highly personal and idiosyncratic nature of these drawings This chapter features an interesting attempt to classify mother and child drawings in relation to size of the figures A particularly fascinating chapter on the impact of art on the therapist focuses on artwork done by professional artists who have addressed the mother and child theme The author explores and analyzes several thematic works of art from varying time periods and cultures It is her intent to help mental health professionals to explore their responses to pictorial art as individuals and thereby gain new understandings of related transference and countertransference issues with clients Chapter four provides clear instructions for administering mother and child drawings as a projective technique and guidelines for their interpretation This section provides samples and analyses of age typical drawings from the general population They vary greatly in style and artistic proficiency and are included to provide an idea of the usual developmental sequence of drawing characteristics from early childhood through the adult years Drawings of groups with demonstrated psychological pathologies or physical and developmental abnormalities comprise the final chapter This section approaches the interpretation of drawings by asking questions about how they communicate basic self and object relations issues This commanding volume of interest to students and professionals alike will provide art therapists school psychologists and mental health practitioners of all stripes with a powerful new projective technique to add to their professional armamentarium
