Learning Beyond the Classroom Tom Bentley, 2012-12-06 Education has become one of our major concerns at the heart of any strategy for prosperity and social cohesion But young people are having more difficulty than ever before in adapting to the world they will enter as adults Tom Bentley argues that if education is to meet the emerging challenges of the twenty first century we must recognise that learning takes place far beyond the formal education sector We cannot rely solely on dedicated teachers to deliver the understanding and personal qualities young people will need Instead we must connect what happens in schools to wider opportunities for learning Drawing on a wide ranging review of educational innovation and on contemporary analysis of economic social and technological change this book shows that creating an education revolution requires us to think far more radically about young people and the options for reform and outlines a vision of education fit for the twenty first century Tom Bentley is a senior researcher at Demos the independent think tank He was born and educated in East London and at Oxford University His research areas include young people education the future of work and combating of social exclusion

Naglieri,2009-06-24 Impairment and disability are widely used terms yet considerable disagreement exists as to their relationship especially when impairment means different things to different professionals in the fields of mental health medicine and education Although diagnostic criteria for various disorders are clearly detailed in the DSM IV and elsewhere criteria for impairment remain elusive And patients with severe limitations but minimal symptoms or the reverse further complicate the discussion The first in depth treatment of the theory definition and evaluation of this core concept Assessing Impairment From Theory to Practice cuts through the confusion and cross talk Leading scholars and clinicians offer a robust evidence base for a much needed reconceptualization of impairment within the context of diagnosis and disability arguing for a wide ranging quality of life perspective This contextual approach to assessment goes beyond mere symptom counting resulting in more accurate diagnosis targeted interventions and improved patient functioning Within this concise but comprehensive volume coverage focuses on key areas including Current conceptualizations from the DSM IV and other medical models Methodologies for measuring symptom severity and impairment Social behavioral issues such as resilience adaptive behaviors and family environment Developmental issues across the life span Legal and ethical questions and civil rights issues Impairment and disability as they relate to trauma The interdisciplinary model proposed in Assessing
