Place, Not Race Sheryll Cashin, 2014-05-06 From a nationally recognized expert a fresh and original argument for bettering affirmative action Race based affirmative action had been declining as a factor in university admissions even before the recent spate of related cases arrived at the Supreme Court Since Ward Connerly kickstarted a state by state political mobilization against affirmative action in the mid 1990s the percentage of four year public colleges that consider racial or ethnic status in admissions has fallen from 60 percent to 35 percent Only 45 percent of private colleges still explicitly consider race with elite schools more likely to do so although they too have retreated For law professor and civil rights activist Sheryll Cashin this isn't entirely bad news because as she argues affirmative action as currently practiced does little to help disadvantaged people The truly disadvantaged black and brown children trapped in high poverty environs are not getting the quality schooling they need in part because backlash and wedge politics undermine any possibility for common sense public policies Using place instead of race in diversity programming she writes will better amend the structural disadvantages endured by many children of color while enhancing the possibility that we might one day move past the racial resentment that affirmative action engenders In Place Not Race Cashin reimagines affirmative action and champions place based policies arguing that college applicants who have thrived despite exposure to neighborhood or school poverty are deserving of special consideration Those blessed to have come of age in poverty free havens are not Sixty years since the historic decision we're undoubtedly far from meeting the promise of Brown v Board of Education but Cashin offers a new framework for true inclusion for the millions of children who live separate and unequal lives Her proposals include making standardized tests optional replacing merit based financial aid with need based financial aid and recruiting high achieving students from overlooked places among other steps that encourage cross racial alliances and social mobility A call for action toward the long overdue promise of equality Place Not Race persuasively shows how the social costs of racial preferences actually outweigh any of the marginal benefits when effective race neutral alternatives are available

Failing Law Schools Brian Z. Tamanaha, 2012-06-15 On the surface law schools today are thriving Enrollments are on the rise and their resources are often the envy of every other university department Law professors are among the highest paid and play key roles as public intellectuals advisers and government officials Yet behind the flourishing facade law schools are failing abjectly Recent front page stories have detailed widespread dubious practices including false reporting of LSAT and GPA scores misleading placement reports and the fundamental failure to prepare graduates to enter the profession Addressing all these problems and more in a ringing critique is renowned legal scholar Brian Z Tamanaha Piece by piece Tamanaha lays out the how and why of the crisis and the likely consequences if the current trend continues The out of pocket cost of obtaining a law degree at many schools now approaches 200 000 The average law school graduate s debt is around 100 000 the highest it has ever been while the legal job market is the worst in decades with the scarce jobs offering starting salaries well below what is needed to handle such a debt load At the heart of the problem Tamanaha argues are the economic demands and competitive pressures on law schools driven by competition over U S News and World Report ranking When paired with a lack of regulatory oversight the work environment of professors the limited information available to prospective students and loan based tuition financing the result is a system that is fundamentally unsustainable Growing concern with the crisis in legal education has led to high profile coverage in the Wall Street Journal and the New York Times and many observers expect it soon will be the focus of congressional scrutiny Bringing to the table his years of experience from within the legal academy Tamanaha has provided the perfect resource for assessing what s wrong with law schools and figuring out how to fix them Governance by

Indicators Kevin Davis,Angelina Fisher,Benedict Kingsbury,Sally Engle Merry,2012-07-05 The use of indicators as a technique of global governance is increasing rapidly Major examples include the World Bank s Doing Business Indicators the World Bank s Good Governance and Rule of Law indicators the Millennium Development Goals and the indicators produced by Transparency International Human rights indicators are being developed in the UN and regional and advocacy organizations The burgeoning production and use of indicators has not however been accompanied by systematic comparative study of or reflection on the implications possibilities and pitfalls of this practice This book furthers the study of these issues by examining the production and history of indicators as well as relationships between the producers users subjects and audiences of indicators It also explores the creation use and effects of indicators as forms of knowledge and as mechanisms of making and implementing decisions in global governance Using insights from case studies empirical work and theoretical approaches from several disciplines the book identifies legal policy and normative implications of the production and use of indicators as a tool of global governance How to Write Anything John J.
