Shin, Robert K. Toutkoushian, Ulrich Teichler, 2011-06-06 This ground breaking and exhaustive analysis of university ranking surveys scrutinizes their theoretical bases, methodological issues, societal impact and policy implications providing readers with a deep understanding of these controversial comparators The authors propose that university rankings are misused by policymakers and institutional leaders alike They assert that these interested parties overlook the highly problematic internal logic of ranking methodologies even as they obsess over the surveys assessment of their status The result is that institutions suffer from short termism realigning their resources to maximize their relative rankings While rankings are widely used in policy and academic discussions this is the first book to explore the theoretical and methodological issues of ranking itself It is a welcome contribution to an often highly charged debate Far from showing how to manipulate the system this collection of work by key researchers aims to enlighten interested parties Theater Careers Tim Donahue, Jim Patterson, 2013-07-22

Failing Law Schools Brian Z. Tamanaha, 2012-06-15 On the surface law schools today are thriving Enrollments are on the rise and their resources are often the envy of every other university department Law professors are among the highest paid and play key roles as public intellectuals advisers and government officials Yet behind the flourishing facade law schools are failing abjectly Recent front page stories have detailed widespread dubious practices including false reporting of LSAT and GPA scores misleading placement reports and the fundamental failure to prepare graduates to enter the profession

Addressing all these problems and more in a ringing critique is renowned legal scholar Brian Z Tamanaha Piece by piece Tamanaha lays out the how and why of the crisis and the likely consequences if the current trend continues The out of pocket cost of obtaining a law degree at many schools now approaches 200 000 The average law school graduate s debt is around 100 000 the highest it has ever been while the legal job market is the worst in decades with the scarce jobs offering starting salaries well below what is needed to handle such a debt load At the heart of the problem Tamanaha argues are the economic demands and competitive pressures on law schools driven by competition over U S News and World Report ranking When paired with a lack of regulatory oversight the work environment of professors the limited information available to prospective students and loan based tuition financing the result is a system that is fundamentally unsustainable Growing concern with the crisis in legal education has led to high profile coverage in the Wall Street Journal and the New York Times and many observers expect it soon will be the focus of congressional scrutiny Bringing to the table his years of experience from within the legal academy Tamanaha has provided the perfect resource for assessing what s wrong with law schools and figuring out how to fix them
