The History of Chocolate

The Aztecs made a special drink from cacao beans. They mixed cacao with vanilla, black pepper and honey. Then they poured the drink from height so it had foam. The drink wasn't very sweet, and the Aztecs called it Cacahuatl or "bitter water". Only the king and the nobles drank Cacahuatl. Some people say that the Aztec king Moctezuma II drank 50 cups of Cacahuatl a day. When Hernan Cortes came to Mexico, Moctezuma gave him a Golden cup full of this precious drink. Hernan Cortes took three chests of cacao beans back to Spain with him in 1528. At first, nobody liked the strange drink. Someone added hot water and sugar to the cacao beans and this drink became popular.

The Spaniards tried to keep the recipe secret, but slowly it spread across Europe. By the 1700s, there were chocolate shops in many European cities. Chocolate was very expensive. Only rich people could buy it. In the early 1800s, a doctor in England invented a new chocolate recipe. He added milk instead of water to the mixture of sugar and cacao. Children started drinking hot chocolate, and it became even more popular. The next step in the transformation of the cacao bean happened in Holland. In 1828, Conrad van Houten made cocoa butter and cocoa powder from the beans. This was the start of solid chocolate. With this new method, a company called Fry's of England made the first chocolate bar in 1847. Then in 1876, the Swiss company Nestle added milk to the recipe and made the first milk chocolate bar. At first, chocolate bars were very expensive, but then, in 1894, Hershey's made the first cheap chocolate bar. Other chocolate companies did the same, and soon ordinary people were buying chocolate in stores all over the world.

Essential English Skills for the Australian Curriculum Year 7 2nd Edition Anne-Marie Brownhill, Alison Rucco, Sonya Stoneman, Deborah Simpson, 2016-05-17 English in Australia, 2004 Australia's Curriculum Dilemmas Lyn Yates, Cherry Collins, Kate O'Connor, 2011-03-15 Australia's Curriculum Dilemmas tells the story of Australia's recent attempts to come to grips with the big challenges of curriculum and sets up the background to understanding the debates that continue to surface as we move for the first time towards a national approach. Detailing some of the inside stories and arguments of the last 30 years about what schools should do as well as some of the politics and lessons that have been learnt along the way, it brings together accounts from a national research project and reflections from people who have been actively involved in developing curriculum policies for each state. Expert contributors examine the challenges of the public management of curriculum drawing on the different experiences of curriculum reforms in different states. They take up the problems of framing vocational and academic education for the new century and of confronting equity and diversity issues. They show the fundamental differences that exist in Australia regarding the impact of examinations and assessment and the very different policy approaches that have been taken to tackle these issues. Many people in this country are unaware of how much their experience of education has been formed by the particular values of the state in which they were educated. For the first time this book demonstrates the effects of those differences now and into the future.
