The Golden Crocodile F. Mortimer Trimmer,1897 The Crocodile Connection M. C. Conacher,2009-09 Inside the Crocodile Trish Nicholson,2015-10-28 In the wilds of the most diverse nation on earth while she copes with crocodiles under the blackboard and sorcery in the office Trish Nicholson survives near fatal malaria and mollifies irascible politicians and an ever changing roster of bosses realities of life for a development worker With a background in anthropology and a successful management career in Europe five years on a development project in the remote West Sepik province of Papua New Guinea more than fulfils Trish Nicholson's desire for a challenge. In extreme tropical conditions with few only sometimes passable roads, travel is by a balu, an alarmingly tiny plane landing on airstrips cut with grass knives and squeezed between mountains. Students build their own schools, babies' weights are recorded in rice bags and women walk for days carrying their produce to market. Physically tested by dense jungle and swaying vine bridges, Trish's patience is stretched by nothing ever being what it seems and with yes usually meaning no. Assignments in isolated outstations provide surreal moments like the 80-year-old missionary in long friar's robes revealing natty turquoise shorts as he tears away on an ancient motorbike. Adventures on nearby Pacific islands relieve the intensity of life in a close-knit community of nationals and a cosmopolitan mix of expat characters. Local women offer friendship but their stories are often heart-breaking. More chaos arrives with Frisbee the dog she inherits when the project manager leaves along with other project expats. Tensions increase between local factions supporting the project and those who feel threatened by it and stuck in the middle is Trish. Her emotionally engaging memoir Inside the Crocodile is full of humour, adventure, iron determination and Frisbee the dog. It is beautifully illustrated with colour photos of Trish's time there.

The Steel Crocodile D G Compton, 2011-09-29. In answer to an unanswerable future, science has created Bohn, the omnipotent computer whose flashing circuits and messianic pronouncements dictate what tomorrow will or will not be. But Matthew Oliver is flesh and blood and full of questions not nearly as certain as the machine he's appointed to serve. And the right hand of science seldom knows what the left hand is doing.

In Crocodile Land Ion Idriess, 2022-06-01. In Crocodile Land is principally the story of travels by lugger through northern waters and into slimy creeks where the huge crocodiles abound. The author took part in many hunting expeditions and enlightens us on the various methods adopted for catching these fearsome creatures. The party had more than a little success to the great glee of the blackfellows who accompanied them. We journey next into the country of the buffaloes. Here on sunlit clearings through thickets of pandanus palms the buffaloes were to be found in hundreds. There is plenty of risk in hunting the buffalo. Once the shooting starts the horse must continue his gallop faster than the buffaloes and alongside them keeping them going. One stumble and the end is near for horse and rider. Western Mail Perth 1946. Although it has the thrill of crocodile shooting and trapping as its central theme, the book also affords a sympathetic and fascinating study of the aborigines and their tribal customs, slants on the dangerous sport of buffalo hunting and vivid pen pictures of Wyndham, Darwin and other far northern towns. Adelaide Advertiser 1946. Introduced by Tony McKenna.
