possibilities of literature and culture to redefine race and gender studies The Oxford History of the Novel in English

Simon Gikandi, 2016-09-05 Why did the novel take such a long time to emerge in the colonial world And what cultural work did it come to perform in societies where subjects were not free and modes of social organization diverged from the European cultural centers where the novel gained its form and audience Answering these questions and more Volume 11 The Novel in Africa and the Caribbean since 1950 explores the institutions of cultural production that exerted influence in late colonialism from missionary schools and metropolitan publishers to universities and small presses How these structures provoke and respond to the literary trends and social peculiarities of Africa and the Caribbean impacts not only the writing and reading of novels in those regions but also has a transformative effect on the novel as a global phenomenon Together the volume's 32 contributing experts tell a story about the close relationship between the novel and the project of decolonization and explore the multiple ways in which novels enable readers to imagine communities beyond their own and thus made this form of literature a compelling catalyst for cultural transformation The authors show that even as the novel grows in Africa and the Caribbean as a mark of the elites mastery of European form it becomes the essential instrument for critiquing colonialism and for articulating the new horizons of cultural nationalism Within this historical context the volume examines works by authors such as Chinua Achebe Nadine Gordimer George Lamming Jamaica Kincaid V S Naipaul Zoe Wicomb J M Coetzee and many others Ghosts: A Social History, vol 1 Owen Davies, 2024-08-01 Reveals changing perceptions of ghosts at different social levels from the Reformation through to the twentieth century in Britain and America This five volume set focuses on the key published debates that emerged in each century and illustrates the range of literary formats that reported or discussed ghosts

Taking Flight Jennifer Donahue, 2020-07-23 Caribbean women have long utilized the medium of fiction to break the pervasive silence surrounding abuse and exploitation Contemporary works by such authors as Tiphonie Yanique and Nicole Dennis Benn illustrate the deep rooted consequences of trauma based on gender sexuality and race and trace the steps that women take to find safer ground from oppression Taking Flight examines the immigrant experience in contemporary Caribbean women's writing and considers the effects of restrictive social mores In the texts examined in Taking Flight culturally sanctioned violence impacts the ability of female characters to be at home in their bodies or in the spaces they inhabit The works draw attention to the historic racialization and sexualization of black women's bodies and continue the legacy of narrating black women's long standing contestation of systems of oppression Arguing that there is a clear link between trauma shame and migration with trauma serving as a precursor to the protagonists emigration Jennifer Donahue focuses on how female bodies are policed how moral racial and sexual codes are linked and how the enforcement of social norms can function as a form of trauma Donahue considers the relationship between trauma shame and sexual politics and investigates how shame works as a social regulator that frequently leads to withdrawal or avoidant behaviors in those who violate socially sanctioned mores Most importantly Taking Flight positions flight as a powerful counter to disempowerment and considers how flight whether through dissociation or migration functions as a form of resistance

Joyce's Ghosts Luke Gibbons, 2015-11-13 A deeply original work part of a refreshing new wave of literary criticism that is written in clear hospitable prose driven by genuine passion Irish Times For decades James Joyce s modernism has overshadowed his Irishness as his self imposed exile and association with the high modernism of Europe s urban centers has led critics to see him almost exclusively as a cosmopolitan figure In Joyce s Ghosts Luke Gibbons mounts a powerful argument that Joyce s Irishness is intrinsic to his modernism informing his most distinctive literary experiments Ireland Gibbons shows is not just a source of subject matter or content for Joyce but of form itself Joyce s stylistic innovations can be traced at least as much to the tragedies of Irish history as to the shock of European modernity as he explores the incomplete project of inner life under colonialism Joyce s language Gibbons reveals is haunted by ghosts less ethnographic study of migrants refugees and temporary people in Malaysia incorporating narratives personal stories and observations of everyday life in Kuala Lumpur and Georgetown Penang Rather than focusing on specific migrant communities or refugee camps the book takes subaltern cosmopolitanism as its central lens to look at how different and diverse communities of non citizen pendatang aliens co habit work and live together in Malaysia Urban centers in Malaysia offer the space for informality that allow stateless and undocumented people to seek out opportunities while also finding ways to assimilate or even disappear into the fabric of society The book focuses on the notion of contaminations rather than migration or migrants to underscore one of the most important findings of the ethnographic study that migrant life in Malaysia is critically integral embedded and interwoven into the everyday life in the city shaping and affecting all aspects of daily life from production and supply chains food service networks cultural and religious practices waste and recycling work to more intimate and private contexts such as romantic relationships family life and sex work Hybridity inter mixing and bastardization are part and parcel of everyday urbanism in KL and Penang these contaminating elements challenge and disrupt categories of the national and categories such as insider outsider national purity and politically constructed divisions between ethnic and racial groups The book thus relies upon detailed ethnographic narratives curated over a decade of study offering students interested in fieldwork research insights into the types of engagements and commitments necessary for helping build the complex uneasy and destabilizing knowledge that characterizes critical ethnography
