The Model Maker A World War II Veteran S Story:

The Model Maker Brett S. Weber, 2006 The Model Maker is inspired by the personal account of a World War II veteran's experiences during the Battle of the Bulge Bill spends a good deal of his time working on his model airplanes They mean more to him than just a usual hobby however They remind him of a time and a place when these models were replaced with real planes and his tranquil rural setting was replaced with gunfire thick forests and an ever present danger Through his models he recalls his story in a simple quiet way that belies the harsh reality of the Battle of the Bulge This story is meant to capture the interest of the young reader and to serve as a springboard into an important historical lesson The event of World War II was a pivotal point in modern history It is imperative that the lessons learned by this Greatest Generation should never be lost or forgotten

Bodies in the Making Nancy N. Chen, 2006 In the twenty first century the body is experienced less as a fixed entity than it is as a protean product and a project of technological medical and artistic invention The essays in Bodies in the Making Transgressions and Transformations address the proliferation of such transformative practices as tattooing piercing self cutting cosmetic and transsexual surgery prosthetics organ transplants and life extension technologies Establishing links among these varied practices the contributors illuminate the dramatic and widespread changes that have taken place across generations in attitudes towards the relation of the body to the mind to agency and to subjectivity Bodies in the Making also addresses a paradox that has shaped recent body modification debates Although physical transformations are usually experienced as self expressive and liberatory they are frequently understood to be socially determined economically driven and culturally enmeshed Contributors to the volume engage this contradiction directly exploring ways in which diverse body practices are capable of subverting power while also at times reinscribing it

Improving the Presumptive Disability Decision-Making Process for Veterans Institute of Medicine, Board on Military and Veterans Health, Committee on Evaluation of the Presumptive Disability Decision-Making Process for Veterans, 2008-05-15 The United States has long recognized and honored the service and sacrifices of its military and veterans Veterans who have been injured by their service whether their injury appears during service or afterwards are owed appropriate health care and disability compensation For some medical conditions that develop after military service the scientific information needed to connect the health conditions to the circumstances of service may be incomplete When information is incomplete Congress or the Department of Veterans Affairs VA may need to make a presumption of service connection so that a group of veterans can be appropriately compensated The missing information may be about the specific exposures of the veterans or there may be incomplete scientific evidence as to whether an exposure during service causes the health condition of concern For example when the exposures of military personnel in Vietnam to Agent Orange could not be clearly documented a presumption was established that all those who set foot on Vietnam soil were exposed to Agent Orange The Institute of Medicine IOM Committee was charged with reviewing and describing how presumptions have been made in the past and if needed to make recommendations for an improved scientific framework that could be used in the future for determining if a presumption should be made The Committee was asked to consider and describe the processes of all participants in the current presumptive disability decision making process for veterans The Committee was not asked to offer an opinion about past presumptive decisions or to suggest specific future presumptions The Committee heard from a range of groups that figure into this decision making process including past and present staffers from Congress the VA the IOM veterans service organizations and individual veterans The Department of Defense DoD briefed the Committee about its current activities and plans to better track the exposures and health conditions of military personnel The Committee further documented the current process by developing case studies around exposures and health conditions for which presumptions had been made Improving the Presumptive Disability Decision Making Process for Veterans explains recommendations made by the committee general methods by which scientists as well as government and other organizations evaluate scientific evidence in order to determine if a specific exposure causes a health condition

United States. Congress. House. Committee on Veterans' Affairs. Subcommittee on Health,2008 World War II for Kids Richard Panchyk,2005-11-01 Now more than ever kids want to know about our country s great struggles during World War II This book is packed with information that kids will find fascinating from Hitler s rise to power in 1933 to the surrender of the Japanese in 1945 Much more than an ordinary history book it is filled with excerpts from actual wartime letters written to and by American and German troops personal anecdotes from people who lived through the war in the United States Germany Britain Russia Hungary and Japan and gripping stories from Holocaust survivors all add a humanizing global perspective to the war This collection of 21 activities shows kids how it felt to live through this monumental period in history They will play a rationing game or try the butter extender recipe to understand the everyday sacrifices made by wartime families They will try their hands at military strategy in coastal defense break a code and play a latitude and longitude tracking game Whether growing a victory garden or staging an adventure radio program kids will appreciate the hardships and joys experienced on the home front Army and Navy Bulletin ,1948 The Public-Private Health Care State

Rosemary A. Stevens,2009-06-30 The distinctive mixing and continuous remixing of public and private roles is a defining feature of health care in the United States The Public Private Health Care State explores the interweaving of public and private enterprise in health care in the United States as a basis for thinking about health care in terms of its history and its continuing evolution today Historian and policy analyst Rosemary Stevens has selected and edited seventeen essays from both her published and unpublished work to illustrate continuing themes such as the flexible meanings of the terms public and private and how useful their ambiguity has been and is the role of ideology as ratifying rather than preordaining change and the common behavior of public leaders and corporate entities in the face of fiscal opportunity The topics covering the period of 1870 through the twenty first century represent Stevens research interests in hospital history and policy the medical profession government policy and paying for health care The volume also considers her involvement with policy questions which include health services research health maintenance organizations and physician workforce policy Section I demonstrates the long history of state government involvement with private not for profit hospitals from the 1870s through the 1930s Section II examines the federal role in health care from the 1920s through the 1970s including the establishment of veterans hospitals and the implementation of Medicaid Section III shows how shifting governmental roles require constantly changing organizing rhetoric whether for inventing a federal role for health services research and HMOs regionalization in the 1970s or defining civil rights and equity as mobilizing vehicles in the 1980s Section IV examines growing concerns from the 1970s through the present about the traditional public role of the largely private medical profession Section V returns to the ambiguous public private status of not for profit hospitals buffeted in the 1980s and 1990s by assumptions about the efficiency of the market Soldiers ,2000 Soldiers to Citizens Suzanne Mettler,2007-09-10
Drawing on extensive interviews and surveys with hundreds of members of the greatest generation Suzanne Mettler finds that by treating veterans as first class citizens and in granting advanced education the G I Bill inspired them to become the active participants thanks to whom memberships in civic organizations soared and levels of political activity peaked
