Congress. Senate. Committee on Energy and Natural Resources. Subcommittee on Forests and Public Land Management, 2000 When the national forests were withdrawn from the public domain a century ago they were established with the assurances that proceeds from the sustainable management of their natural resources would be shared with local governments These proceeds partially refund the tax revenues lost by local governments and go toward funding rural schools roads and other services Since 1990 controversies over federal forest management policies and reduced timber sales have decreased these payments dramatically leaving many rural schools in difficult circumstances A Senate subcommittee held hearings on proposed legislation that would establish a set amount to be paid to affected local governments and apply available receipts to meet these payments with general treasury funds making up the difference Only 75 percent of the payments would go to the traditional schools and roads program 25 percent would be given to the counties for federal land management projects developed locally The bill aims to provide secure funding for rural schools while giving people a new incentive to work together at the local level Testimony from U S Senators county commissioners and representatives of organizations advocating school environmental community and timber industry interests discussed details of funding mechanisms the balance between economic and ecological concerns the composition and duties of local advisory committees the risk of catastrophic wildfires and issues related to community survival SV

Neopluralism Andrew S. McFarland,2004 Many of the basic issues of political science have been addressed by pluralist theory which focuses on the competing interests of a democratic polity their organization and their influence on policy Andrew McFarland shows that this approach still provides a promising foundation for understanding the American political process

Ideas, Interests and the Development of the European Banking Systems Florian Brugger,2020-08-17 What are the grand dynamics that drive the history of economies The laws of supply demand most economists would argue For the history of European banking this book offers an alternative explanation Rather than market forces the coincidence and coalitions of charismatic ideas and powerful interests is what shaped banking in Europe In Ideas Interests and the Development of the European Banking Systems Florian Brugger traced decisive moments in the history of the European Banking Sector from the time of the Italian City States to the post World War I period he shows how coalitions of ideas and interests built the tracks along which the European Banking Sector developed Inspired by Max Weber he argues that economic organizations and institutions like the Banking Sector are embedded into three fundamental orders the economic the cultural and the political order Enforced and institutionalized by vested interests ideas of the cultural order legitimate and empower interests of the economic and political order What is more decisive moments were frequently characterized by coalitions of ideas and interests between parties that in normal times had nothing in common or were even confronting each other in a hostile way

The Test of Time Rick Farmer, John David Rausch, John Clifford Green, 2003-01-01 The Test of Time moves beyond the realm of speculation and punditry to analyze the observable and measurable effects of the early experiences of state legislature term limits Setting the agenda for future term limits studies this volume brings together fifteen outstanding empirical studies contributed by top political scientists and state policymakers Five of the essays case studies of key states offer depth and context for understanding the shifting institutional changes wrought by term limits at the state level The remaining chapters develop these findings through cross state comparisons that examine how legislatures legislators and political linkages such as lobbying and electoral competition have been affected by the imposition of legislative term limits Supported by a comprehensive annotated bibliography of term limits literature and a history of the term limits movement this work will be an enduring resource for academics teaching courses in state government and practitioners either experiencing term limits or preparing for term limits to take effect

Decision Making in Natural Resource Management Michael J. Conroy, James T. Peterson, 2013-03-18 This book is intended for use by natural resource managers and scientists and students in the fields of natural resource management ecology and conservation biology who are confronted with complex and difficult decision making problems The book takes readers through the process of developing a structured approach to decision making by firstly deconstructing decisions into component parts which are each fully analyzed and then reassembled to form a working decision model The book integrates common sense ideas about problem definitions such as the need for decisions to be driven by explicit objectives with sophisticated approaches for modeling decision influence and incorporating feedback from monitoring programs into decision making via adaptive management Numerous worked examples are provided for illustration along with detailed case studies illustrating the authors experience in applying structured approaches There is also a series of detailed technical appendices An accompanying website provides computer code and data used in the worked examples Additional resources for this book can be found at www.wiley.com/go/conroy_naturalresourcemanagement
