Pedagogies of the Imagination Timothy Leonard, Peter Willis, 2008-06-11 I have long admired the mythopoetic tradition in curriculum studies That admiration followed from my experience as a high school teacher of English in a wealthy suburb of New York City at the end of the 1960s A dream job I taught four classes of 15-20 students during a nine period day in a dream suburb where I could afford to reside only by taking a room in a retired teacher's house many of these often Ivy League bound students had everything but meaningful lives This middle class Midwestern young teacher was flabbergasted In one sense my academic life has been devoted to understanding that searing experience Matters of meaning seemed paramount in the curriculum field to which Paul Klohr introduced me at Ohio State Klohr assigned me the work of curriculum theorists such as James B Macdonald Like Timothy Leonard who also studied with Klohr at Ohio State and Peter Willis Macdonald 1995 understood that school reform was part of a broader cultural and political crisis in which meaning is but one casualty In the mythopoetic tradition in curriculum studies scholars labor to understand this crisis and the conditions for the reconstruction of meaning in our time in our schools
