

MONOLOGUES
THE CRUCIBLE* by Arthur Miller

FEMALE ROLES:

1. ABIGAIL Williams

(Act I – Betty Paris is in a trance-like state at home in bed. She has also been throwing fits, as if she's possessed. This all started when the girls snuck out to the woods; they danced and they got Tituba to practice some type of voodoo magic to talk to the dead and cast a spell to kill Elizabeth Proctor. Abigail is in love with Elizabeth's husband, John, and wants to take her place. The town suspects that Betty's bewitched, and Abigail wants all of the girls to keep quiet about the spell against Elizabeth, because she doesn't want to be accused of being a witch.)

Now look you. All of you. We danced, And Tituba conjured Ruth Putnam's dead sisters. And that is all. And mark this—let either of you breath a word, or the edge of a word about the other things, and I will come on you in the black of some terrible night and I will bring a pointy reckoning that will shudder you. And you know I can do it, I saw Indians smash my dear parents' heads on the pillow next to mine, and I have seen some reddish work done at night, and I can make you wish you had never seen the sun go down!!! Now you... Betty, sit up and stop this!!!

2. Rebecca Nurse

(Act I – Rebecca has just entered the room of the sick child, Betty. Ann and Thomas Putnam, Reverend Parris, John Proctor, Giles Corey, and Abigail Williams are in the room as well. Everyone except John Proctor and Abigail Williams just came flying into the room, because Betty was having a fit. While everyone else panicked, Rebecca went to the child and got her to lay back down quietly.)

Pray, calm yourselves. I have eleven children, and I am twenty-six times a grandma, and I have seen them all through their silly seasons, and when it come on them they will run the Devil bowlegged keeping up with their mischief. I think she'll wake when she tires of it. A child's spirit is like a child, you can never catch it by running after it; you must stand still, and for love it will soon itself come back. Mr. Parris, I hope you are not decided to go in search of loose spirits. I've heard promise of that outside.

3. Ann Putnam

(Act I – Ann and Thomas Putnam just arrived at the Parris' house to see what is going on with Betty, the sick child. Their daughter, Ruth, is also stricken with this mysterious illness. They are convinced that it is witchcraft at work in Salem. They have come to the Parris house to make sure that Reverend Parris starts an inquiry to call out witches in their community.)

Reverend Parris, I have laid seven babies unbaptized in the earth. Believe me, sir, you never saw more hearty babies born. And yet, each would wither in my arms the very night of their birth. I have spoke nothin', but my heart has clamored intimations. And now, this year, my Ruth, my only – I see her turning strange. A secret child she has become this year, and shrivels like a sucking mouth were pullin' on her life too. And so I thought to send her to your Tituba – Tituba knows how to speak to the dead, Mr. Parris. Who else may surely tell us what person murdered my babies? They were murdered, Mr. Parris! And mark this proof! Mark it! Last night my Ruth were ever so close to their little spirits; I know it, sir. For how else is she struck dumb now except some power of darkness would stop her mouth? It is a marvelous sign, Mr. Parris!

The Miryam Monologues:

The Miryam Monologues Michael Lapointe, 2014-10-23 From the moment I had known him conceived a bastard in a small village I had tried to protect him from his hostile family and neighbors and instill in him a sense of caution and self preservation Yet here he stood drawing the vastly more dangerous attentions of the priests and Romans I had raised a child I feared for not the one who would become this public man What a fool I felt My efforts as his mother had been miserably mistaken and so ended in this estrangement Miryam Mary of Nazareth as she witnesses her son Yeshua Jesus addressing a large crowd in Galilee The Miryam Monologues depicts the struggle of a fiercely protective woman to understand her son and to accept his fate Told from her own perspective these twenty six monologues record the growth of Miryam from a beleaguered fifteen year old girl into an inspired leader of her eldest son s followers The Miryam Monologues begins with a bold young woman whose indifference to convention ostracizes her from her community The marriage offered by Yosef Joseph saves Miryam from stoning but she doubts her husband believes her account of Yeshua s origin When Yeshua undertakes his mission to heal and teach Miryam watches in confusion helpless to protect her child as he exposes himself to the hostility of the priests and Romans As her son approaches his inevitable death Miryam fights to end her bitter alienation from him and in the last hours of his life to achieve her own redemption Women's Scenes and Monologues Joyce

Shame, the Church and the Regulation of Female Sexuality Miryam Clough, 2017-07-14 This book explores the idea that shame has historically been and continues to be used by an oftentimes patriarchal Christian Church as a mechanism to control and regulate female sexuality and to displace men's ambivalence about sex. It is a fresh take on the issue of shame and gender in the context of religious belief and practice. As such, it will be of significant interest to academics in the fields of Religious Studies, Theology, Church History, and Gender Studies.

A Question of Tradition Kathryn Hellerstein, 2014-07-23 In A Question of Tradition, Kathryn Hellerstein explores the roles that women poets played in forming a modern Yiddish literary tradition. Women who wrote in Yiddish go largely unrecognized outside a rapidly diminishing Yiddish readership. Even in the heyday of Yiddish literature, they were regarded as marginal. But for over four centuries, women wrote and published Yiddish poems that addressed the crises of Jewish history, from the plague to the Holocaust, as well as the challenges and pleasures of daily life, prayer, art, friendship, nature, family, and love. Through close readings and translations of poems of eighteen writers, Hellerstein argues for a new perspective on a tradition of women Yiddish poets. Framed by a consideration of Ezra Korman's 1928 anthology of women poets, Hellerstein develops a discussion of poetry that extends from the sixteenth century through the twentieth, from early modern Prague and Krakow to high modernist Warsaw, New York, and California. The poems range from early conventional devotions, such as a printer's preface and verse prayers, to experimental transgressive lyrics that confront a modern ambivalence toward Judaism. In an integrated study of literary and cultural history, Hellerstein shows the immensely important contribution made by women poets to Jewish literary tradition.
