Whelan-Stewart, 2024-09-18 Rather than rarities literary depictions of women breastfeeding infants are more common in American literature than recognized In some cases readers have dismissed such portrayals as scenic background or strokes of verisimilitude In other cases we have failed to register them at all By cataloging and closely reading scenes of characters breastfeeding across the nineteenth twentieth and twenty first centuries this book decodes the beliefs of writers as celebrated as Willa Cather Toni Morrison and Louise Erdrich and as current as Camille Dungy Maggie Nelson and Torrey Peters It traces in these authors fantasies and fears the consistent and sometimes competing cultural ideologies that accrue over decades and find expression in breastfeeding scenes Despite the different historical and cultural expectations of what a mother should be and do twentieth and twenty first century women writers have consistently singled out maternal pleasure a mother s privileging of her own desire as the most important theme attending scenes of breastfeeding Books I've Read

Postcolonial

Imaginings David Punter, 2000 This deeply engaging historically and culturally informed book provides new perspectives on a wide range of writers and at the same time provides a radically new development of many of the most pertinent issues in the field of postcolonial writing and theory It constitutes a major new engagement between the postcolonial and a conception of the literary that is richly innovative in its deployment of psychoanalytic deconstructive and other approaches to the text The book begins with some brief background to the issue of decolonization and its contemporary effects It is informed throughout by a clear sense of literary and political context within which chosen texts by well known writers Derek Walcott Chinua Achebe Edward Kamau Brathwaite as well as less well known ones Joan Riley Susan Power Abdulrazak Gurnah and writers not often seen in a postcolonial context James Kelman Seamus Deane Hanif Kureishi can be situated The chapters that follow are based around themes such as violent geographics hallucination dream and the exotic mourning and melancholy diaspora and exile delocalization and the alibi This profoundly new approach to the complexities of the postcolonial allows the reader to appreciate some of the richness but at the same time the political and cultural ambivalence which underlies postcolonial writing Throughout the book David Punter continually questions as one would expect from his many previous books the definition and scope of the postcolonial It is seen throughout as a phenomenon not restricted to the ex or neo colonies but as a key characterisation of all our lives at the beginning of the twenty first century It is an indissoluble part of the development of national imaginings and at the same time an alibi for the emergence of a violently assertive new world order committed to the management and obliteration of difference By juxtaposing texts from different cultural traditions and topographies from Things Fall Apart to The Bone People from Anot

Her Quest for Self: a Journey Gayreen Lyngdoh, 2015-10-14 To journey into the pages of this book is to journey into the colourful world of Chinese and Chinese American culture into slivers of history into gender politics into myth and perhaps even into ourselves In the private struggles and triumphs of Pearl S Bucks and Amy Tans women characters in their quest to re frame and re define themselves and their lives echo the universal experience of women in time and space the stories of love and loss the yearnings and heartaches the joys and sorrows the laughter and the tears and above all their quiet strength and resilience in the face of great odds and injustices that more often than not have marked the female experience through generations The book will no doubt strike a chord in the hearts of the readers and offer a fascinating insight into the heart of a womans world and what it is to be a woman Pearl S Buck and Amy Tan the two authors revisited in this book may both be described as writers who have in their own ways written about the lives of women Through their work they challenged patriarchal assumptions about women by attempting to fashion a distinctive feminine voice that allows for the articulation of womens experiences in their own voices and or through the female perspective This book takes a re look at the women characters in select novels of these two writers examining and analysing their experiences and subjectivities as they journey in quest of the self Special attention is drawn to the role of stories storytelling as a potent means of female expression and of bridging multifarious human divides The urgency of reframing and reinterpreting popular myths as a way of critiquing and changing mindsets where these need to be changed is also explored in depth The book is therefore a critical and insightful study of the works of two women that although written in different periods yet intersect in these pages The novels studied are those relating specifically to China and the Chinese Chinese American experience the main subject being the Chinese woman both in her own local space as well as outside of it Storytelling enables the transmission and perpetuation of values culture and history which as depicted here are crucial to self knowledge and to an understanding of ones place and identity in the universe The self that is represented in these novels therefore is not a self in isolation but a self that is a part and parcel of the human tapestry where race gender culture and history meet and intersect
