Street Art, Public City Alison Young, 2013-11-20 What is street art Who is the street artist Why is street art a crime Since the late 1990s a distinctive cultural practice has emerged in many cities street art involving the placement of uncommissioned artworks in public places Sometimes regarded as a variant of graffiti sometimes called a new art movement its practitioners engage in illicit activities while at the same time the resulting artworks can command high prices at auction and have become collectable aesthetic commodities Such paradoxical responses show that street art challenges conventional understandings of culture law crime and art Street Art Public City Law Crime and the Urban Imagination engages with those paradoxes in order to understand how street art reveals new modes of citizenship in the contemporary city It examines the histories of street art and the motivations of street artists and the experiences both of making street art and looking at street art in public space It considers the ways in which street art has become an integral part of the identity of cities such as London New York Berlin and Melbourne at the same time as street art has become increasingly criminalised It investigates the implications of street art for conceptions of property and authority and suggests that street art and the urban imagination can point us towards a different kind of city the public city Street Art Public City will be of interest to readers concerned with art culture law cities and urban space and also to readers in the fields of legal studies cultural criminology urban geography cultural studies and art more generally changes the focus to the growing phenomenon of artistic protests and resistance in the gentrified neighborhoods Since the 1980s art and artists role s in gentrification ha ve been at the forefront of urban geography research in the subjects of housing regeneration displacement and new urban planning In these accounts the artists have been noted to contribute at all stages of gentrification from triggering it to eventually being displaced by it themselves The current presence of art in our neoliberal urban space s illustrates the constant negotiation between power and resistance And there is a growing need to recognize art s shifting and conflicting relationship with gentrification The chapters presented here share a common thesis that the aesthetic reconfiguration of the neoliberal city does not only allow uneven and exclusionary urban redevelopment strategies but also facilitates the growth of anti gentrification resistance The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history urban cultures cultural geography and urban studies as well as contemporary art practitioners and policymakers

AuthenticTM Sarah Banet-Weiser,2012-11-26 A stimulating smart book on what it means to live in a brand culture Brands are everywhere Branding is central to political campaigns and political protest movements the alchemy of social media and self branding creates overnight celebrities the self proclaimed greening of institutions and merchant goods is nearly universal But while the practice of branding is typically understood as a tool of marketing a method of attaching social meaning to a commodity as a way to make it more personally resonant with consumers Sarah Banet Weiser argues that in the contemporary era brands are about culture as much as they are about economics That in fact we live in a brand culture Authentic™ maintains that branding has extended beyond a business model to become both reliant on and reflective of our most basic social and cultural relations Further these types of brand relationships have become cultural contexts for everyday living individual identity and personal relationships what Banet Weiser refers to as brand cultures Distinct brand cultures that at times overlap and compete with each other are taken up in each chapter the normalization of a feminized self brand in social media the brand culture of street art in urban spaces religious brand cultures such as New Age Spirituality and Prosperity Christianity and the culture of green branding and shopping for change In a culture where graffiti artists loan their visions to both subway walls and department stores buying a cup of fair trade coffee is a political statement and religion is mass marketed on t shirts Banet Weiser questions the distinction between what we understand as the authentic and branding practices But brand cultures are also contradictory and potentially rife with unexpected possibilities leading Authentic™ to articulate a politics of ambivalence creating a lens through which we can see potential political possibilities within the new consumerism
