East Meets West in the Middle Ages and Early Modern Times Albrecht Classen, 2013-09-03 This new volume explores the surprisingly intense and complex relationships between East and West during the Middle Ages and the early modern world combining a large number of critical studies representing such diverse fields as literary German French Italian English Spanish and Arabic and other subdisciplines of history religion anthropology and linguistics The differences between Islam and Christianity erected strong barriers separating two global cultures but as this volume indicates despite many attempts to Other the opposing side the premodern world experienced an astonishing degree of contacts meetings exchanges and influences Scientists travelers authors medical researchers chroniclers diplomats and merchants criss crossed the East and the West or studied the sources produced by the other culture for many different reasons As much as the theoretical concept of Orientalism has been useful in sensitizing us to the fundamental tensions and conflicts separating both worlds at least since the eighteenth century the premodern world did not quite yet operate in such an ideological framework Even though the Crusades had violently pitted Christians against Muslims there were countless contacts and a palpable curiosity on both sides both before during and after those religious warfares

Female Beauty Systems Christine Adams, Tracy Adams, 2015-09-04 Female beauty systems everywhere are complex integrating markers of class status power and sexuality to perform the fundamental function of sorting individuals into categories of more or less desirable Heirs to the tradition of courtly love modern western female beauty systems tend to share the norm of man as pursuer woman as pursued having developed around the trope of the madly desiring poet or knight supplicating his aloof and lovely lady for her favor The apparent longevity of the courtly love tradition raises the question of whether the way in which it structures male desire in reaction to female beauty is part of a universal tendency an evolutionary adaptation despite clear evidence that female beauty systems are also in fact socially constructed and reflect enormous ambivalence about the power and performance of beauty Although modern western female beauty systems are routinely demystified and contested today the purveyors of culture that support them institutional intellectual artistic commercial and popular continue as they always have to construe women as objects of male desire Still within this basic structure the systems have varied greatly across time and space with women using beauty as a form of social capital in widely differing ways Moreover as individuals have begun to experience their bodies as malleable and endlessly transformable rather than unruly and unyielding many have begun to experience beauty less as a given and more as a project The nine essays collected here examine a number of different Western female beauty systems over the centuries considering how women have complied with contributed to profited or suffered from and resisted them
