The Censor's Hand Carl E. Schneider, 2015-04-10 An argument that the system of boards that license human subject research is so fundamentally misconceived that it inevitably does more harm than good Medical and social progress depend on research with human subjects When that research is done in institutions getting federal money it is regulated often minutely by federally required and supervised bureaucracies called institutional review boards IRBs Do can these IRBs do more harm than good In The Censor's Hand Schneider addresses this crucial but long unasked question

Schneider answers the question by consulting a critical but ignored experience the law's learning about regulation and by amassing empirical evidence that is scattered around many literatures. He concludes that IRBs were fundamentally misconceived. Their usefulness to human subjects is doubtful but they clearly delay, distort and deter research that can save people's lives, soothe their suffering and enhance their welfare. IRBs demonstrably make decisions poorly. They cannot be expected to make decisions well for they lack the expertise, ethical principles, legal rules, effective procedures and accountability essential to good regulation. And IRBs are censors in the place censorship is most damaging: universities. In sum, Schneider argues that IRBs are bad regulation that inescapably do more harm than good. They were an irreparable mistake that should be abandoned so that research can be conducted properly and regulated sensibly. Excel Preliminary

With an equal mix of joy and sorrow, All That's True follows Andi's poignant and sometimes laugh-out-loud journey to young adulthood where she struggles with the elusive nature of truth and the devastating consequences of deception. Jackie Lee Miles is a wise and perceptive writer with a keen understanding of human frailties. Julie Cannon, author of Truelove and Homegrown Tomatoes, perfect in voice and detail, chock-full of girl talk and seat-of-the-pants crises. Miles' book is a winner. Rosemary Daniell, award-winning author of Secrets of the Zona Rosa, How Writing and Sisterhood Can Change Women's Lives. Miles is a fascinating new voice in Southern fiction. Readers will rejoice. Karin Gillespie, author of Bet Your Bottom Dollar. For those of us looking for relationships that feel authentic, you will find them in this novel. Recognitions Enrico Botta, Gianna Fusco, Pilar Martínez Benedí, Anna Scannavini, 2024-11-04. This volume offers a critical exploration of the many ways in which transcoding acts at the intersection of literature, art, history, and social and cultural artifacts to foster instances of recognition in the US. Recognition covers a wealth of meanings from the mere acknowledgement of existence, validity, or legality, or appreciation of something as valuable, to the identification of something as known or familiar. Accordingly, this volume deals with different struggles for recognition. One focus of the volume is the assessment of artistic achievement in relation to a so-called original, with essays concerned with cultural codes and with the role that translation, adaptation, and cross-cultural encounters have played in US artistic and literary productions. A second parallel strand focuses on the fight for political and social inclusion, or on the dynamics beneath the recognition of group and gender identities to explore how activism and artistic literary productions challenge received identity boundaries and accepted social and cultural hierarchies. Bringing together recognition and transcoding, transculturality, the book deconstructs crystalized and codified categories and celebrates the crossing of boundaries.
