The Ice Queen Ernest Ingersoll, 1925-01-01 The early dusk of a December day was fast changing into darkness as three of the young people with whose adventures this story is concerned trudged briskly homeward The day was a bright one and Aleck the oldest who was a skilled workman in the brass foundry although scarcely eighteen years of age had given himself a half holiday in order to take Kate and The Youngster on a long skating expedition down to the lighthouse Kate was his sister two years younger than he and The Youngster was a brother whose twelfth birthday this was The little fellow never had had so much fun in one afternoon he thought and maintained stoutly that he scarcely felt tired at all The ice had been in splendid condition the day calm but cloudy so that their eyes had not ached and they had been able to go far out upon the solidly frozen surface of the lake How far do you think we have skated to day Aleck asked The Youngster It s four miles from the lower bridge to the lighthouse spoke up Kate before Aleck could reply and four back That makes eight miles to begin with Yes said Aleck and on top of that you must put let me see I should think counting all our twists and turns fully ten miles more We were almost abreast of Stony Point when we were farthest out and they say that s five miles long Altogether then we skated about eighteen miles Right my boy your arithmetic is your strong point Well I should say his feet were his strong point to day Kate exclaimed in admiration of her brother s hardihood It wasn t a bad day s work for a girl I know of either remarked Aleck as he took the key from his pocket and opened the door of their house which was soon bright with lamplight and a crackling fire of oak and hickory The house these three dwelt in was a small cottage in an obscure street of the village but it was warm and tight Kate was housekeeper and The Youngster whose real name was James contracted first into Jim and then into Jimkin was man of all work and maid of all work too sometimes when Kate needed his help While these two are getting tea and Aleck is carefully wiping the skates and putting them away where no rust can have a chance at the blades or mice gnaw the straps let me tell you a few things about the family Jim could remember his father only vaguely but Kate and Aleck could tell us all about him His name was Kincaid and he was a master builder of houses He had bought and fitted up the cottage and had put savings in the bank though Mrs Kincaid was sick much of the time so that money was spent that would have been laid by for a rainy day if she had been strong and well
