Corporate Criminality and Liability for Fraud Alison Cronin, 2018-03-14 Through a rational reconstruction of orthodox legal principles and reference to cutting edge neuro science this book reveals some startling truths about the criminal law its history and the fundamental doctrines that underpin the attribution of criminal fault While this has important implications for the criminal law generally the focus of this work is the development of a theory of corporate criminality that accords with modern theory of group agency itself informed by advancements in contemporary philosophy and social science The innovation it proposes is the theoretical and practical means by which criminal fault can be attributed directly to the corporate actor where liability cannot or should not be reduced to its individual members

Race Rights Reparations Fernne Brennan, 2017-07-14 This book considers institutional racism as a problem that exists within modern societies Its roots lie with the transatlantic slave trade and slavery and the solution involves ridding society of the problem It is argued here that first there needs to be an acceptance of its existence then developing the tools needed to deal with it and finally to implement those tools so that institutional racism can be permanently removed from society The book has four themes the first considers the nature of institutional racism the second theme looks at instances of institutional racism through matters such as deaths in custody and skin lightening the third considers the concept of reparations and the final area looks at the development of social movements as a way of pushing institutional racism up the political agenda The development of a social movement is part of a social discourse which would for example push mentoring as a form of reparations There is a need for more research on the manifestations of institutional racism and this book is part of that discourse It is argued that the legacy of the slave trade and slavery is continuing and contemporary through the presence of institutional racism in society This problem has not been addressed through legislation and policies devised to combat racial discrimination Institutional racism needs to be understood as being located in the processes and procedures of societal institutions

The Right Not to be Criminalized Dennis J. Baker, 2016-02-24 This book presents arguments and proposals for constraining criminalization with a focus on the legal limits of the criminal law The book approaches the issue by showing how the moral criteria for constraining unjust criminalization can and has been incorporated into constitutional human rights and thus provides a legal right not to be unfairly criminalized The book sets out the constitutional limits of the substantive criminal law As far as specific constitutional rights operate to protect specific freedoms for example free speech freedom of religion privacy etc the right not to be criminalized has proved to be a rather powerful justice constraint in the U S Yet the general right not to be criminalized has not been fully embraced in either the U S or Europe although it does exist This volume lays out the legal foundations of that right and the criteria for determining when the state might override it The book will be of interest to researchers in the areas of legal philosophy criminal law constitutional law and criminology The Ashgate Research Companion to International Criminal Law Yvonne McDermott, 2016-03-23 International criminal law is at a crucial point in its history and development and the time is right for practitioners academics and students to take stock of the lessons learnt from the past fifteen years as the international community moves towards an increasingly uni polar international criminal legal order with the International Criminal Court ICC at the helm This unique Research Companion takes a critical approach to a wide variety of theoretical practical legal and policy issues surrounding and underpinning the operation of international criminal law as applied by international criminal tribunals The book is divided into four main parts The first part analyses international crimes and modes of liability with a view to identifying areas which have been inconsistently or misguidedly interpreted overlooked to date or are likely to be increasingly significant in future The second part examines international criminal processes and procedures and here the authors discuss issues such as victim participation and the rights of the accused The third part is a discussion of complementarity and sentencing while the final part of the book looks at international criminal justice in context The authors raise issues which are likely to provide the most significant challenges and most promising opportunities for the continuing development of this body of law As international criminal law becomes more established as a distinct discipline it becomes imperative for international criminal scholarship to provide a degree of critical analysis both of individual legal issues and of the international criminal project as a whole This book represents an important collective effort to introduce an element of legal realism or critical legal studies into the academic discourse

Elewa Badar, 2013-01-30 The purpose of this book is to find a unified approach to the doctrine of mens rea in the sphere of international criminal law based on an in depth comparative analysis of different legal systems and the jurisprudence of international criminal tribunals since Nuremberg Part I examines the concept of mens rea in common and continental legal systems as well as its counterpart in Islamic Shari'a law Part II looks at the jurisprudence of the post Second World War trials the work of the International Law Commission and the concept of genocidal intent in light of the travaux préparatoires of the 1948 Genocide Convention Further chapters are devoted to a discussion of the boundaries of mens rea in the jurisprudence of the International Criminal Tribunals for the former Yugoslavia and Rwanda The final chapter examines the definition of the mental element as provided for in Article 30 of the Statute of the International Criminal Court in light of the recent decisions delivered by the International Criminal Court The study also examines the general principles that underlie the various approaches to the mental elements of crimes as well as the subjective element required in perpetration and participation in crimes and the interrelation between mistake of law and mistake of fact with the subjective element With a Foreword by Professor William Schabas and an Epilogue by Professor Roger Clark From the Foreword by William Schabas Mohamed Elewa Badar has taken this complex landscape of mens rea at the international level and prepared a thorough well structured monograph This book is destined to become an indispensable tool for lawyers and judges at the international tribunals From the Epilogue by Professor Roger Clark This is the most comprehensive effort I have encountered pulling together across legal systems the general part themes especially about the mental element found in confusing array in the common law the civil law and Islamic law In this endeavour Dr Badar's researches have much to offer us
