

4K BASIC FOR ZX-80

1. ZX-80 user's view.

(a) Program Listing

The user inputs via the keyboard, lines of BASIC for insertion into the program and commands for immediate execution. While he is doing this he sees a display which is divided into two parts: the upper part is a "window" on the program listing, while the lower part displays the line or command he is currently outputting. Normally, the lower part is large enough to hold the whole line (which will take more than one screen line if it contains more than 32 characters), there is a blank line between the two parts, and the upper part occupies the remainder of the screen. If, however, there is insufficient RAM to hold a display of this size (each character on screen occupies 1 byte of RAM*) the upper part of the display will be shrunk line by line until the display file is small enough. When the upper part has disappeared altogether the lower part shrinks character by character.

The computer maintains a "current line number" for editing the program and the display is always organised so that the line with that number, or the preceding line if no line with that number exists, is on the screen if at all possible. If there is a line with the current number, it is displayed with a symbol consisting of a reverse video  between its line number and the text of the line; if there is none then the reverse video  will not appear.

Three keys are provided for changing the current line number: "↑" changes it to the line number of the preceding line, "↓" changes it to the line number of the following line, and "HOME" resets it to zero. If there is no preceding line "↑" sets it to the line number of the first line in the program; similarly "↓" will set it to the last line.

There are two other ways which the current line number can change: inserting a line into the program sets it to the line number of that line, and the command "LIST n" will set it to n.

When the current line is off the top of the screen, the window moves up so that it becomes the first line. When it is at or just off the bottom the window moves down a line. If it is well beyond the bottom of the window, the window moves down so that it becomes the second line on the screen.
