Han,C. Clark Triplett,Ashley G. Anthony,2018-08-22 Dystopian fiction captivates us by depicting future worlds at once eerily similar and shockingly foreign to our own This collection of new essays presents some of the most recent scholarship on a genre whose popularity has surged dramatically since the 1990s Contributors explore such novels as The Lord of the Flies The Heart Goes Last The Giver and The Strain Trilogy as social critique revealing how they appeal to the same impulse as utopian fiction the desire for an idealized yet illusory society in which evil is purged and justice prevails New Perspectives in English One' 2005 Ed. , several contemporary themes It was only when he encountered Arthur C Clarke that he decided to make a science fiction film Yet it took more than four years for 2001 A Space Odyssey to reach the screen a productive and creative odyssey that involved experimentation last minute rethinks strokes of genius quarrels ultimatums feats of will and mental breakdowns Drawing extensively from never before seen material including production documents and private correspondences 2001 between Kubrick and Clarke gives for the first time a complete account of the two authors creative collaboration one which casts lights on their on again off again relationship as well as revealing new information about the genesis production and reception of the first and most important film about space the origin of humankind and its destiny among the stars

Autofiction in English Hywel Dix, 2018-06-04 This innovative volume establishes autofiction as a new and dynamic area of theoretical research in English Since the term was coined by Serge Doubrovsky autofiction has become established as a recognizable genre within the French literary pantheon Yet unlike other areas of French theory English language discussion of autofiction has been relatively limited until now Starting out by exploring the characteristic features and definitions of autofiction from a conceptual standpoint the collection identifies a number of cultural historical and theoretical contexts in which the emergence of autofiction in English can be understood In the process it identifies what is new and distinctive about

Anglophone forms of autofiction when compared to its French equivalents These include a preoccupation with the conditions of authorship writing after trauma and a heightened degree of authorial self reflexivity beyond that typically associated with postmodernism By concluding that there is such a field as autofiction in English it provides for the first time detailed analysis of the major works in that field and a concise historical overview of its emergence It thus opens up new avenues in life writing and authorship research

Lacan, Foucault, and the Malleable Subject in Early Modern English Utopian Literature Dan Mills, 2020-02-13 Theoretically informed scholarship on early modern English utopian literature has largely focused on Marxist interpretation of these texts in an attempt to characterize them as proto Marxist The present volume instead focuses on subjectivity in early modern English utopian writing by using these texts as case studies to explore intersections of the thought of Jacques Lacan and Michel Foucault Both Lacan and Foucault moved back and forth between structuralist and post structuralist intellectual trends and ultimately both defy strict categorization into either camp Although numerous studies have appeared that compare Lacan's and Foucault's thought there have been relatively few applications of their thought together onto literature By applying the thought of both theorists who were not literary critics to readings of early modern English utopian literature this study will on the one hand describe the formation of utopian subjectivity that is both psychoanalytically Oedipal and pre Oedipal and socially constructed and on the other hand demonstrate new ways in which the thought of Lacan and Foucault inform and complement each other when applied to literary texts The utopian subject is a malleable subject a subject whose linguistic psychoanalytical subjectivity determines the extent to which environmental and social factors manifest in an identity that moves among Lacan's Symbolic Imaginary and Real
