Waste Uncovering The Global Food Scandal Tristram Stuart:

Waste: Uncovering the Global Food Scandal Tristram Stuart, 2009-10-12 In a timely work Stuart examines the true cost of what the global food industry throws away

Waste: Uncovering the Global Food Scandal Tristram Stuart, 2009-10-26 The true cost of what the global food industry throws away With shortages volatile prices and nearly one billion people hungry the world has a food problem or thinks it does Farmers manufacturers supermarkets and consumers in North America and Europe discard up to half of their food enough to feed all the world's hungry at least three times over Forests are destroyed and nearly one tenth of the West's greenhouse gas emissions are released growing food that will never be eaten While affluent nations throw away food through neglect in the developing world crops rot because farmers lack the means to process store and transport them to market But there could be surprisingly painless remedies for what has become one of the world's most pressing environmental and social problems Waste traces the problem around the globe from the top to the bottom of the food production chain Stuart's journey takes him from the streets of New York to China Pakistan and Japan and back to his home in England Introducing us to foraging pigs potato farmers and food industry CEOs Stuart encounters grotesque examples of profligacy but also inspiring innovations and ways of making the most of what we have The journey is a personal one as Stuart is a dedicated freegan who has chosen to live off of discarded or self produced food in order to highlight the global food waste scandal Combining front line investigation with startling new data Waste shows how the way we live now has created a global food crisis and what we can do to fix it

Waste strategy for England 2007 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Committee, 2010-01-19 Every year some 330 million tonnes of waste are produced in the UK The direct costs of managing this waste 2.5 billion annually for English household waste alone are dwarfed by the costs of using new resources to replace discarded materials The Government should as a priority set out a timetable with significantly raised targets for reducing the total amount of waste produced The waste strategy focuses disproportionately on domestic waste which contributes less than 10 per cent of all waste while omitting firm targets for the commercial and industrial sectors which produce around a quarter of all waste Defra must rectify this urgently Funding cuts to services designed to help businesses manage their waste well are premature and should be re-evaluated and ways to extend such services to a wider range of organisations should be considered Far too small a proportion of waste is re-used recycled composted or used to produce energy Nearly half of all waste is still sent to landfill sites where it contributes to climate change producing 3 per cent of the country's greenhouse gases and 40 per cent of its methane emissions The Committee notes the so-called Primark effect which has led to large increases in the amount of clothing sent to landfill sites Food waste is another significant component of waste sent to landfill sites and householders food producers and retailers need to do more to reduce the amount of food discarded unnecessarily Waste should only be used for energy recovery if it is not possible to re-use recycle or compost it

Mathematics for the Environment Martin Walter, 2011-01-18

Mathematics for the Environment shows how to employ simple mathematical tools such as arithmetic to uncover fundamental conflicts between the logic of human civilization and the logic of Nature These tools can then be used to understand and effectively deal with economic environmental and social issues With elementary mathematics the book se

Trash Talks Elizabeth V. Spelman, 2016-03-31 A lively investigation of the intimate connections we maintain with the things we toss away It's hard to think of trash as anything but a growing menace Our communities face crises over what to do with the mountains of rubbish we produce the enormous amount of biological waste generated by humans and animals and the truckloads of electronic equipment judged to be obsolete All this effluvia poses widespread problems for human health the well being of the planet and the quality of our lives But though our notorious habits of disposal have put us well on the way to making the earth inhospitable to life our relation to rejectamenta includes much more than shedding and tossing In Trash Talks philosopher Elizabeth V Spelman explores the extent to which we rely on trash and waste to make sense of our lives Examples are rich We use people's rubbish to gain information about them We trumpet wastefulness as a means of signaling social status We take the occupation of handling trash and garbage as revelatory of possible moral or spiritual shortcomings We are intrigued by or in distress over the idea that evolution is a prodigiously wasteful process and that it is to the dustbin that each of us and our species shall ultimately repair In the heaps of our trash some see consequences of dissatisfaction while others find confirmation of a flourishing consumer economy While we may want to shove debris and detritus out of sight many of our most impassioned projects involve keeping these objects resolutely in mind Trash talks and there is much of which it speaks
