Drama Magazine ,1917 Shame and the Captives Thomas Keneally,2015-12-08 Originally published in 2013 by Random House Australia Pty Ltd Alice's Adventures in Wonderland Lewis Carroll,1927 A little girl falls down a rabbit hole and discovers a world of nonsensical and amusing characters Saturday Reader ,1866 Global Healing Karen Laura Thornber,2020-03-02 Read an interview with Karen Thornber In Global Healing Literature Advocacy Care Karen Laura Thornber analyzes how narratives from diverse communities globally engage with a broad variety of diseases and other serious health conditions and advocate for empathic compassionate and respectful care that facilitates healing and enables wellbeing The three parts of this book discuss writings from Africa the Americas Asia Europe the Middle East and Oceania that implore societies to shatter the devastating social stigmas which prevent billions from accessing effective care to increase the availability of quality person focused healthcare and to prioritize partnerships that facilitate healing and enable wellbeing for both patients and loved ones Thornber s Global Healing remaps the contours of comparative literature world literature the medical humanities and the health humanities Watch a video interview with Thornber by the Mahindra Humanities Center part of their conversations on Covid 19 Read an interview with Thornber on Brill s Humanities Matter blog Effeminism Revathi Krishnaswamy,2023-06-20 Effeminism charts the flows of colonial desire in the works of British writers in India Working on the assumption that desire is intensely political historically constituted and materially determined the book shows how the inscriptions of masculinity in the fictions of Flora Annie Steel Rudyard Kipling and E M Forster are deeply implicated in the politics of colonial rule and anticolonial resistance At the same time the study refrains from representing colonialism as a coherent set of public events policies and practices whose social political and cultural meanings are self evident Instead by tracing the resistant and unassailable modes of masculine desire in colonial fiction the study insists on an explosive revolutionary potential that makes desire often intractable And by restoring the political in the unconscious and the unconscious in the political the book proposes to understand colonialism in terms of historical failure ideological inadequacy and political contention This book will interest not only scholars of 19th and 20th century British literature and colonial and postcolonial literatures but also those working in the areas of cultural studies gender studies and South Asian studies Krishnaswamy uses effeminization to describe the complicated paths of colonial sexual desire stereotypes of Indian male passivity and how colonizing men used womanhood to delegitimize discredit and disempower colonized men Reading texts by Rudyard Kipling a culturally hybrid male E M Forster a homosexual and F A Steel a woman the author shows how these tactics affect the representation not only of colonized men and women but also of the

marginalized writers of the colonizing culture In the process she makes intriguing analogies between androgyny and biculturalism Choice Drama, 1917 Milk the Beloved Country Sihle Khumalo, 2023-03-02 Buckle up for a tour of South Africa your guide the inimitable Sihle Khumalo Born in South Africa and having lived here for almost fifty years Khumalo reflects on the past and ponders the future of this captivating yet complex country He delves into the history of the names given to our towns and cities from Graaff Reinet to Schweizer Reneke to Zastron and in the process raises issues we might not have interrogated fully Faithful Passages James Emmett Ryan, 2013-03-15 Roman Catholic writers in colonial America played only a minority role in debates about religion politics morality national identity and literary culture However the commercial print revolution of the nineteenth century combined with the arrival of many European Catholic immigrants provided a vibrant evangelical nexus in which Roman Catholic print discourse would thrive among a tightly knit circle of American writers and readers James Emmett Ryan's pathbreaking study follows the careers of important nineteenth century religionists including Orestes Brownson Isaac Hecker Anna Hanson Dorsey and Cardinal James Gibbons tracing the distinctive literature that they created during the years that non Catholic writers like Herman Melville and Emily Dickinson were producing iconic works of American literature Faithful Passages also reveals new dimensions in American religious literary culture by moving beyond the antebellum period to consider how the first important cohort of Catholic writers shaped their message for subsequent generations of readers in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Perhaps most strikingly Ryan shows that by the early twentieth century Roman Catholic themes and traditions in American literature would be advanced in complex ways by mainstream non Catholic modernist writers like Kate Chopin and Willa Cather Catholic literary culture in the United States took shape in a myriad of ways and at the hands of diverse participants The process by which Roman Catholic ideas themes and moralities were shared and adapted by writers with highly differentiated beliefs Ryan contends illuminates a surprising fluidity of religious commitment and expression in early U S literary culture

The Jews in the Secret Nazi Reports on Popular Opinion in Germany, 1933-1945 Otto Dov Kulka, Eberhard Jäckel, 2010-11-23 Presented for the first time in English the huge archive of secret Nazi reports reveals what life was like for German Jews and the extent to which the German population supported their social exclusion and the measures that led to their annihilation

The Baptism of Early Virginia Rebecca Anne Goetz, 2016-02-15 In The Baptism of Early Virginia Rebecca Anne Goetz examines the construction of race through the religious beliefs and practices of English Virginians She finds the seventeenth century a critical time in the development and articulation of racial ideologies ultimately in the idea of hereditary heathenism the notion that Africans and Indians were incapable of genuine Christian conversion In Virginia in particular English settlers initially believed that native people would quickly become Christian and would form a vibrant partnership with English people After vicious Anglo Indian violence dashed those hopes English Virginians used Christian rituals like marriage and baptism to exclude first Indians and then Africans from the privileges enjoyed by English Christians including freedom Resistance to hereditary heathenism was not uncommon however Enslaved people and many Anglican ministers fought against planters racial ideologies setting the stage for Christian abolitionism in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries Using court records letters and pamphlets Goetz suggests new ways of approaching and understanding the deeply entwined relationship between Christianity and race in early America Goetz has done an impressive job bringing religion to the center of the historiography on race and her study is a must read for all scholars interested in the development of race and the role of Protestantism in the Atlantic world Register of the Kentucky Historical Society In a compact 173 pages Goetz links race and religion in colonial Virginia in ways that few other scholars have even attempted Journal of American History This is impressive scholarship grounded in letters pamphlets court records colonial statutes and a wide array of additional archival and secondary sources It is a book that will find ready readership in graduate seminars seminars and undergraduate classrooms Virginia Magazine of History and Biography Professor Goetz is to be warmly applauded for having produced a work of such methodological scope and intellectual sophistication a most persuasive work that ranks as a major contribution to the field Slavery and Abolition Rebecca Anne Goetz is an associate professor of history at New York University The American Robert Ellis Thompson, Wharton Barker, 1883 Civilization Orestes Augustus Brownson, 1884 The Living Age, 1859 Crack Christopher Radmann, 2014-05-01 The tensions and complexities of 1970s South Africa are brought vividly to life in this dark and powerful literary thriller Gentle but highly strung Janet must support her Afrikaner husband in his new job as a plain clothes policeman and specialist interrogator Hektor Jan heads off to work on New Year's Day aware that he is unbearably close to a bloody drama about to unfold As Janet's world tightens and threatens to fracture she must look to her children and cling to the support of Alice her black maid and Solomon her ever faithful gardener All too conscious of her own emotional fragility Janet watches her mother slip into the folds of Old Timers disease And next door the lurking unfathomable Doug is up to no good As the crack in the swimming pool widens can Janet bridge the gaps that threaten them all Written with tenderness and disquieting power Christopher Radmann exposes a brutal centre that cannot hold and reveals how in apartheid South Africa things must crack and fall apart Hankering in Literature Dr.G.Vinothkumar, Writings and Contents are not mere words Each work has its own uniqueness and features It tries to cover the interdisciplinary fields that are emerging in the contemporary trends of Arts and Humanities Since 2008 the institute for English and Foreign Languages deals with the intersectionality of language and literature It recognizes the necessity to bridge academic gaps and promote the link in English Studies In the book chapter Hankering in Literature the department presents various research papers under an umbrella term This includes the neoteric literary investigations of outstanding scholars and researchers in the field of study Recognizing that language is more powerful than what we say read write or hear in this issue of Hankering our editors have privileged articles that express the ecology aesthetic and cognitive qualities of the discipline Expressing a struggle of deliverance disability and ethnicity this edition is a synthesis of literary symbolic and psychology reflection on the English language and literary studies Topics are from various literary studies prose and verse criticism theoretical analysis application of interpretive methods of literary criticism and research perspectives Attention has been given to the dominant areas encompassing literary discourse analysis By sticking to the research goals and aid to use language in critical and creative ways we firmly believe that we will be able to provide an ambitious engaging and stimulating space for those who contribute to us Above all the ability to communicate in single language is one of the eminent improvements humanity has ever experienced Therefore as advocates and users of the words of this beautiful human language within its framework let us evince this process with the utmost faith and gratitude The Oxford Dictionary of Quotations Elizabeth M.
