

Figure 1 illustrates a two-stage, two-way, two-level factorial design. The design is hierarchical, starting with Stage 1, which branches into Control and Treatment. Each Stage 1 level then branches into Stage 2, which also branches into Control and Treatment. Stage 2 further branches into Level 1, which branches into Control and Treatment. The final outcome is Outcome.

- The diagram illustrates a two-stage process. Stage 1 is labeled 'Pre-Test' and has two possible outcomes: 'Successful' and 'Unsuccessful'. If 'Successful', the process moves to Stage 2, labeled 'Post-Test'. If 'Unsuccessful', the process ends. Stage 2 also has two possible outcomes: 'Successful' and 'Unsuccessful', both of which lead to the final 'End' state.
