vision acuity of 20/40, or better. Vision examination of all inspection personnel is required every three years or less if necessary to demonstrate adequacy.

- f. Checking weld joint preparations.
- g. Checking for base metal discontinuities.
- h. Establishing a plan for the recording of results.

Visual inspection during welding by the weld operator shall include:

- c. Preheat and interpass temperatures.
- d. Sequence of weld passes.

The following items shall be inspected on at least 10% of all assemblies after welding to determine the quality of the welds:

- a. Geometric imperfections. The fillet weld faces shall be slightly convex, concave, or flat, as shown in Figure 6.2.3(a) A and B. Weld profiles exhibited in Figure 6.2.3(a) C are unacceptable. Figure 6.2.3(a) D and E testing (while very costly) is good, and ultrasonic testing is poor in detecting volumetric discontinuities, such as porosity. Ultrasonic testing is good for detecting planar discontinuities, such as incomplete sidewall fusion, while radiographic testing can miss such discontinuities unless oriented parallel or near parallel to the radiation direction.

Commentary

Visual inspection for cracks in welds and base metal and other discontinuities should be aided by a strong light, magnifier, or other such devices, as may be found to be helpful.

Size, length, and contour of welds should be measured with suitable weld-size gauges. Groove welds should be measured for proper reinforcement on both sides of the joint. Quality control should compare the welds with three-dimensional "workmanship samples" available from AWS. These are actual welded samples, or plastic replicas of welded samples, that depict actual weld conditions.
