Research Issues ,1974      Substance Abuse and Psychopathology Arthur Alterman,2014-07-08 Substance misuse and abuse exist in almost every human society In our western civilization the bulk of attention has focused on those individuals who specifically seek treatment or those who have become so disabled by these problems that they require treatment These individuals usually qualify for a psychiatric diagnosis of alcohol or other substance abuse However just as it has been recognized that primary substance abuse is frequently associated with other diagnosable psychiatric disorders such as sociopathy or attention deficit disorder residual type and that the origins of substance abuse are multivariate we have also begun to become aware that many other individuals in our society with psychiatric or other problems also suffer to varying degrees from substance abuse These problems may be considered secondary by various specialists or treatment personnel but nevertheless they are problems and what disorder is primary or secondary in a given individual may often be very difficult to determine in a meaningful fashion Thus within the past decade research studies have reported significant incidences of substance abuse or misuse in high school and college aged populations in medical populations and in individuals with other psychiatric disorders such as schizophrenia depression and the anxiety and personality disorders Yet to date little has been done to bring together and systematize this widely scattered data that describes the presence of substance abuse problems in various populations      Assessing Alcohol Problems ,1995      Proceedings Antal J.
