Computer Paul Atkinson, 2010-08-15 The pixelated rectangle we spend most of our day staring at in silence is not the television as many long feared but the computer the ubiquitous portal of work and personal lives At this point the computer is almost so common we don't notice it in our view It's difficult to envision that not that long ago it was a gigantic room sized structure only to be accessed by a few inspiring as much awe and respect as fear and mystery Now that the machine has decreased in size and increased in popular use the computer has become a prosaic appliance little more noted than a toaster These dramatic changes from the daunting to the ordinary are captured in Computer by design historian Paul Atkinson Here Atkinson chronicles the changes in physical design of the computer and shows how these changes in design are related to changes in popular attitude Atkinson is fascinated by how the computer has been represented and promoted in advertising For example in contrast to ads from the 1970s and 80s today's PC is very PC genderless and largely status free Computer also considers the role of the computer as a cultural touchstone as evidenced by its regular appearance in popular culture including the iconography of the space age HAL from 2001 A Space Odyssey James Bond's gadgetry and Stars War and Star Trek Computer covers many issues ignored by other histories of computing which have focused on technology and the economics involved in their production but rarely on the role of fashion in the physical design and promotion of computers and their general reception The book will appeal to professionals and students of design and technology as well as those interested in the history of computers and how they have shaped and been shaped by our lives

Leenders,Shaul M. Gabbay,2013-03-09 In studies of inter organizational relations IOR s there is a tendency to look at dyads of firms and to consider networks as aggregates of such dyads But there are several roles for a third party a go between This chapter looks at a go between not in the sense of a middleman who intermediates in existing production or trade such as an agent wholesaler retailer and not in the sense of an entrepreneur who intermediates in the realization of new potential in connecting supply and demand It looks at a go between in the sense of a relationship counsellor for the development and maintenance of social capital providing support in setting up adapting and ending cooperative relations between others Or in yet different terms to help in the embedding of relations in Granovetter's 1985 sense Uzzi 1997a Such roles may be performed by middlemen or entrepreneurs but also by specialized agents who do not play a direct role in linking stages in a chain of production and distribution as middlemen and entrepreneurs typically do Indeed some of the roles require an independence that is served by not having a direct stake in the relations that need to be developed I propose that the analysis yields a perspective for looking at the roles of trade and industry associations in European business systems and of banks and trading houses in Japanese enterprise groups Kigyo Shudan
