

1. Neutral the hand brake

The easiest way to move the vehicle from a parked position to a driving position is to use the hand brake. To ensure this you should use the hand brake to the handle of the selector lever (that is, to the handle of the selector lever) and not the handle of the hand brake itself.

When manually downshifting, the vehicle will not move into the gear you require unless the hand brake is released and the selector lever is moved to the required gear.

An "uphill start assist system" will also assist you when starting.

Roll-down device

The roll-down device gives movement to the selector lever when the selector lever is moved down past the full service brake (braking or stop) band and engine start. The device is a roll-down device that allows the selector lever to move from the full service brake.

WARNING

Be careful when using the roll-down device on slippery roads. Rapid acceleration may cause skidding.

Driving the Automatic transmissionStarting the engine

The selector lever must be in N (Neutral) or P (Park) when the engine is started. If the selector lever is moved to any other position, the engine will not start.

Selecting a driving positionWARNING

When the selector lever is in a driving position, the vehicle may move into the gear you require. To ensure this you should use the hand brake to the handle of the selector lever (that is, to the handle of the selector lever) and not the handle of the hand brake itself.
